A Corey-Griffith Rift Over Manager Selection

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Charges by former San Bruno councilman Richard Griffith this week that Mayor Maurice Hamilton has already picked a new city manager and the current selection procedure is "a hoax" have been challenged by Councilman George Corey.

In a letter hand delivered to Griffith yesterday Corey proposed that the former councilman follow through with his claim he would write the name of the new city manager on a slip of paper and place it in a sealed envelope to be opened after the appointment.

According to Corey, "Griffith is bluffing, because no one knows the name of the new city manager. I don't know who the next city manager will be yet, because we simply have not made up our minds," Corey said.

But Griffith insists the council, with the exception of councilman Neil Christal, has already chosen the replacement for ousted City Manager Christophers (Kit) Menkin.

"All this talk about 79 candidates screened at some indefinite period to 15, later reduced to eight (it is now seven) is just window dressing to prevent an outcry from Councilman Christal

S.S.F. Doesn't Object to Hearing on Development

South San Francisco councilmen Monday night said they would not object to the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) hearing Crocker Land Company's proposal for development of San Bruno Mountain on November 3 as originally scheduled.

The hearing will be held at 2 p.m. at Daly City city hall.

Councilmen, however, did say they intend to hold out for South San Francisco's reply of its position on sphere of influence until the May 3, 1972 date.

Frank Calton, manager of Crocker's land department, in a letter to LAFCO dated September 30, said his firm wanted its development proposal heard on November 3.

Calton noted that Crocker was not represented when LAFCO postponed the sphere of influence hearing until May 3 of next year.

He said discussions with builders, financial feasibility analysis and public disclosures have consistently contemplated the beginning of construction during mid 1972.

According to Calton any postponements would mean the firm would be required to update environmental and economic studies that are now either completed or soon-to-be completed.

Calton also said the property continues to be assessed at $500 a day "as if the property has development potential."

Sherman Coffman, executive officer of LAFCO in an October 5 memo to the commission said he concurred with Calton's request.

Coffman said the presentation by Crocker would be valuable to the cities in preparing their revised statements, and to the

The 'Other Side'

Another discussion on San Bruno Mountain's future will be held by Citizens for Responsible Government (CRG), South San Francisco civic group.

Bob Albright, president of the organization, said a panel discussion titled "The Mountain — The Other Side" will be held at 7:30 p.m. October 28 at the El Camino High School Little Theater.

Albright said the program is not meant as a rebuttal to any development project Crocker Land Company is proposing. He said it will be a discussion on a regional park for the North County on the mountain.

"This regional park concept is something this (Northern) part of the county has been promised. It should be discussed," he said.

Oil Firm Refuses to Landscape

Texaco Oil Corp. refused point-blank to obey an order of the San Bruno Planning Commission Monday night.

The Commission had directed the giant oil corporation to landscape 10 per cent of the area of a service station it had just purchased from Douglas Oil, at East San Bruno Avenue and 6th. However, on advice of Department City Attorney Dermot Fitzgerald, the commissioners held over the hearing to the Nov. 1 meeting, rather than act on denying the permit.

The 10 per cent provision is part of the city code and no use permit may be granted until that provision is complied with, commissioners said.

"The station was modernized in 1969," Robert Lee, of Lee Associates, representing Texaco, told the commissioners. "You cannot continue to modernize indefinitely. Two years is relatively recent . . . The work performed then was considered by the city to be satisfactory."

The trouble, according to the city's planning consultant, Larry Wise was that a city council committee had granted the last permit, which was illegal under the ordinance, as were all other such permits granted while the ordinance was in effect. The procedure has since been changed; now only the Planning Commission issues the permit.

Lee argued that no new permit was needed; only the owner, and a sign, were being changed. Fitzgerald wanted to find out if the last permit was issued to the owner — or to the land.

A new controversy loomed as the planners rejected plans for

Boring Planned

San Bruno's Planners Make New Freeway 380 Requests

By JACK BIK

As the State Division of Highways this week prepared to proceed with test borings for a pedestrian overpass for the Rte. 380 Crestmoor Canyon extension, the San Bruno Planning Commission made six requests to the highway engineers.

It was learned that the Division of Highways was preparing an announcement of a November 1 date, on which it would call for bids for the borings. This work would involve clearing some brush around the area — big enough for a work truck — where borings would be made on each side of the proposed right of way of the highway. After the tests are made, the holes would be filled and the ground reseeded and returned to its original shape, until construction starts.

Meanwhile, San Bruno city officials were seeking a meeting with highway engineers in order to obtain more facts on the environmental statement or 380 freeway development. According to Acting City Manager Leo Van Dusen, it would not be a public hearing, as the San Bruno Park School Board and local citizens have been asking, since there is no provision in the law for a hearing on an environmental report. It would be a public meeting, however, if it can be arranged before the October 27 deadlines for comments on the report.

The Division of Highways, according to a San Francisco spokesman, was acting in the wake of a move last week by Judge Melvin Cohn in dissolving the temporary injunction that had been holding up work on the freeway extension.

(Earlier Stories, Pages 4-5)

"The decision to build this freeway is one made by the State of California," a highway department spokesman said. "We would be derelict in our duty to the people of this state if we failed to go ahead with the project now."

The Planning Commission voted Monday on presentation of its comments regarding the Environmental Statement. These comments will become a part of the statement to be forwarded to the Department of Interior.

They asked for:

1. A complete meteorological survey on possible effect of the proposed cut in Sweeny Ridge. (A tunnel was suggested as more desireable.)
2. A positive statement that the State will pay for soundproofing and ventilating schools.
3. More definite plans on development of the watershed area.
4. More investigation on additional air pollutions that would be created by the proposed freeway.
5. A new study on population projections.
6. A though investigation to ascertain that a freeway is really necessary.

"It is the feeling of the members of the Planning Commission," the statement concluded, "that a parkway may be sufficient to handle the traffic . . . A parkway would reduce the impact on the environment, ecology and weather. It would also keep the potential air and noise pollution at a lower level."

S.S.F. City Council Decides To Build New Police Station

By BOB PETERSON

South San Francisco councilmen Monday decided to hire an architect to do a site selection for a new police station instead of studying the remodeling possibilities of the present facility.

The Burlingame firm of DeLong Lundburg and Associates was selected on the recommendation of City Manager Gale Dreisbach and Police Chief Sal Rosano.

Veteran Councilmen Frank Bertucelli and Patrick Ahern, although voting to hire the firm, said they would have preferred a study of the present police building.

Bertucelli and Ahern voted against an earlier motion to table indefinitely the agenda item scheduled as a report and recommendation from the city manager and police chief for selection of an architect for a feasibility study on the use of the present building.

At the time the item came up for action, Mayor William Borba said he would prefer to forego any feasibility study of expanding the present facility and instead move right into a land site selection.

This means that the city intends to build a complete new police facility in the near future.

Councilman Frank Mammini said the present police building will have to be used eventually as an expansion facility for city hall, for example to house the engineering department. City hall is cramped.

Police Chief Rosano said he favored the site selection over a feasibility study of the present facility. He said he was confident any study would bear out his contention that it is architecturally inadequate to meet today's police needs.

Councilman Warren Steinkamp said he had read a letter from the architect who built the

Split-Vote Approved Of S.S.F. Spay Clinic

The proposal that the county board of supervisors study the possibility of a low cost spay and neuter clinic for animals got the approval of South San Francisco — by a whisker.

Councilmen split 3-2 on whether to take an official position on the matter that was scheduled to be heard this morning before the supervisors.

The councilmen at their meeting two weeks ago gave tentative approval of endorsing the clinic proposal. They did, however, hold up sending a letter to the supervisors until those (veterinarians) opposing the clinics had a chance to be heard.

Last night Councilman Frank Mammini, who was absent from the meeting two weeks ago, said he wanted the city to take no position. He suggested that the city send the written pro and con positions to the county and let the supervisors take it from there.

The motion was seconded by Councilman Warren Steinkamp, but lost out when Mayor William Borba, who first seemed to lean one way, then another, finally went along with the council's initial endorsement.

Ted Sorich, Menlo Park resident pushing for the clinic made a brief statement for the program modeled after a Los Angeles Clinic.

A $20,000 Heroin Bust In Daly City

Three Daly City men were arrested and pure heroin with a "street value" of more than $20,000 was confiscated in a sweep made by local police and state narcotics agents Monday.

The trio had been the subject of investigation in recent weeks by agents of The State Bureau of Narcotics, San Mateo County narcotics units and police from Daly City and Broadmoor.

First to be arrested in the crackdown was Arthur S. Huesser, 42.

Trailed by unmarked police cars, the suspect was stopped at the corner of Alemany and Sheffield streets by a marked patrol car about 8:30 p.m.

Within two hours, law enforcement agents had arrested David M. Tray, 21, at a Briggs Street, Colma, residence, and James Paul Goszulak, 20, at 266 Miriam street, in Daly City.

The men were charged with possession of heroin and sale of the drug, police said.

The seizure was the largest heroin bust made in Daly City this year, police sergeant Ralph Warren said.

Appointments to the Diamond Utility Body

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors was scheduled to appoint two members of the Dimond Utility District to four year terms today amid talk the district may close shop.

Expected to be reappointed to fill their own elected positions, because there is no opposition for the posts, were McMalone (Bill) Counts, president of the district, and Francis J. Barbara Jr.

Both terms were due to expire in December 1971.

There has been talk in recent months concerning a possible merger of the district with Daly City.

However, it was learned the district has asked the county District Attorney's Office for advice on alternative methods regarding possible dissolution.

The board is waiting for a response from the district attorney before committing itself to any course of action.

Some board members favor putting the matter before voters in the June 1972 primary elections.

Daly City Mayor Bernard J. Lycett said such an election "made sense to me" because the three-member board is elected and obligated to serve the people of that district.

There currently are some 1,000 registered voters in the district, which serves much of the Bayshore district of Daly City and parts of Brisbane.

In the past, Daly City has assisted the district by providing some engineering services free of charge.

Borba Named to Visitor Bureau

Mayor Bill Borba has been named by fellow councilmen as the South San Francisco member of the board of directors of the newly formed County Convention and Visitors Bureau.

A 19-man board is being appointed, nine by cities, five by the county, three by the County Restaurant and Hotel Owners' Association and two by the County Fair and Convention Association.

Montoya to Fight His EOC Ouster

Antonio Montoya, elected chairman of the county Economic Opportunity Commission in a stormy meeting three weeks ago, stepped down Thursday but said he would check into the legality rulings that forced him to relinquish the gavel.

Montoya, of South San Francisco, also is off the commission, due to a ruling last week from the regional Office of Economic Opportunity that he couldn't remain. This provision was in a resolution creating the EOC on July 1, 1968, and says a member may serve no more than three consecutive one-year terms, or until a successor has been named.

Montoya asked the commission for a two-week extension of his membership so he could check the legality and confer with OEC and OEO officials.

The commisison last week then voted to disregard the September 23 election entirely and to vote again on new officers at its next meeting in two weeks.

Mrs. Dolores Randall of East Palo Alto was elected temporary chairman of last night's meeting but Gerald Monroe of East Palo Alto, the outgoing chairman, will resume the chair for the next meeting.

S.S.F. Opposes Assembly Bill

South San Francisco councilmen Monday night adopted a resolution expressing opposition to Assembly Bill 1098, a bill calling for mandatory police and firemen retirement benefits.

Passage of the bill would double present costs for the city, it would reduce safety protection, and it would mean that meet and confer sessions between the city and its employes would be meaningless.

A Corey-Griffith Rift Over Manager Selection

and a facade first suggested by recall leader Orville Wykoff to delude the public," Griffith earlier charged in a newspaper release.

As a further challenge, Councilman Corey offered to place a wager of $100 on Griffith's ability to produce the right name.

A third party — as yet unnamed — would hold the sealed envelope and wager, Corey stipulated.

Griffith responded Tuesday. He denounced Corey's offer a "highly unethical proceeding" and called it "a kind of shell game now that the cat is out of the bag about their (the council's) advance maneuverings."

If the "cat is out of the bag," as Griffith claims, the name of the next city manager, reportedly sealed in an envelope, has not been produce, so far as Corey knows.

Asked Monday if he has such an envelope, Griffith said he had.

However, he did not name the holder of the document or its location.

Corey's wager has been labeled by Griffith as "if not illegal — a highly unethical proceeding."

The attorney-councilman has a voice in the selection of the new city manager, Griffith said.

Corey's counter is that he and at least two other council members would have to know what name Griffith has inside the sealed envelope and then attempt to avoid it in their selection of the next administrative chief for San Bruno.

It would amount, in fact, to a five-way mindreading game, observers noted.

Griffith issued a two page typewritten response to Corey's challenge.

On the proposition of wagering $100, Griffith said Corey has a participating part in the selection.

"It is like the croupier of a fixed roulette wheel — and I say this advisedly — because it was Corey who announced last March after the recall election and before any personnel session had been held that Hamilton would be mayor and that the caucus would be reinstated."

Griffith was recalled in a mid-term election, as was fellow councilman Ted Long.

Throughout the reply to Corey's proposal, Griffith skirted the matter of the sealed envelope with the name of the new city manager.

Corey reacted bitterly to Griffith's allegations.

"Your recent newspaper releases have indicated that you are able to state the name of San Bruno's next city manager . . . you have gone so far as to offer that his name be placed in a sealed envelope to prove you have knowledge of a pre-selection method such as you apparently entered into in the appointment of Mr. Menkin," Corey wrote.

Corey called his wager offer "a small risk" on his part.

"I hardly see how you can refuse this challenge as it would seem you would lose face in the community if you do," Corey added.

In concluding his written response, Griffith, did not pledge the "sealed envelope," but hurled another challenge at Corey — this one concerning "open" council meetings.

SSF Hero Doesn't Show for Award

What do you do when you're holding a resolution of commendation in one hand and a mayor's plaque for heroism in the other, and the hero doesn't show up to receive them?

You hold the matter over until the next council meeting, of course. And this time make sure the recipient is present.

This, at least, is the way South San Francisco Mayor William Borba handled the situation Monday night.

When the agenda item concerning a resolution commending Reynaldo Belmonte of 263 Holly Ave., for saving a child's life came before the council, Borba reached for the framed resolution and his own specially created Mayor's Plaque.

He called for Belmonte to come forward and be properly honored. Belmonte was not in the audience, although he had been sent a letter from city hall requesting his presence at the meeting.

So the matter was continued.

Belmonte, incidentally, is credited with responding to a fire (he's a citizen, not a fireman) giving first aid, including mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, and saving the life of one-year-old Matthew Vasquez.

Fire Chief John Marchi recommended that Belmonte be recognized for his quick action.

Teachers Pay Debate

The Millbrae School District Board of Education again discussed the question of paying salary increments to certificated personnel at their Monday night meeting, held at Chadbourne School annex.

Trustee Theodore N. Dimitre reiterated his concern about these payments, in view of President Nixon's wage and price freeze. He said he felt the board was morally bound to follow the guidelines set down by the President. He read into the record an excerpt from The Cost of Living Council News publication, which stated, "Another question involves multi-year contracts for annual increases on a date after the Aug. 15 freeze. The increases may not go into effect."

Supt. Edward J. Muehlhausen pointed out that other districts are paying increments as well as raises approved by their boards prior to August 15.

Trustee Larry L. Foster said the board is trying to implement the interpretation of the District Attorney in the issue, and the payment of warrants was approved on the vote of Remo Boragno, president; trustees Mrs. Doris M. Brown; Donald M. George and Larry L. Foster, with Theodore Dimitre dissenting.

Dr. Rufus Clapp, Director of Education and Research for the district, told board members there are 142 mentally gifted children in the nine Millbrae schools, representing 4.5 per cent of the total enrollment. These children have IQ's of 132 or more, and are given special programs, together with children who are termed "high achievers."

Dr. Muehlhausen stated that more extensive data is now being compiled on students from kindergarten up, to ascertain their potentialities. All of the schools are geared to individualized instruction, he said.

There was no longer argument and

There was no long argument and walkouts as had characterized the earlier meeting.

In other business last night the commission received a letter from Charles Hall, executive director of Opportunities Industrialization Center West, that OICW funding is being revised and that he hoped a similar center to that in Menlo Park could be established in North San Mateo County.

Edward Becks, executive director of the Menlo Park Center, said it was time to prepare for this because the Menlo Park facility already serves that area from South San Francisco to Sunnyvale.

The commission also voted to write a letter to all cities in the county and the county government receiving Emergency Employment Act funds to set aside at least one job each in its program for job development for the hard-core unemployed. The commission heard several local minority employment workers complain that some cities have refused to lower standards and are requiring higher qualifications than the jobs actually need, thus cutting out some minority unemployed.

A requirement for a high school diploma for a gardener's job, for instance, is an unnecessary obstacle, they said.

the floor came from Dr. Ernest A. Siegel, South San Francisco veterinarian.

Sorich said there would be 11,000 signatures of those favoring the clinic presented to the board of supervisors today.

He estimated the cost of a clinic in the county at $50,000 and said the cost for the first year in Los Angeles was estimated at $70,000 and Palo Alto's recently approved clinic is estimated to cost $33,000.

Siegel claimed the project would wind up becoming an animal welfare program. He went into a lengthy discussion of costs involved and said the veterinarians are not opposed to the project because of costs, but because it is not practical.

Cost figures tossed about ranged from $15 to more than $100.

"The doctors are not making a fortune," he said. "If you're doing a St. Bernard or a Great Dane, you have a problem."

According to Siegel these dog owners are the ones taking advantage of the Los Angeles clinic because of its low cost.

Siegel said a vaccine is only a few years away. Sorich said he was told it might not come for five or up to twenty years.

More About A Landscape Refusal

Phase II of The Place, a giant apartment development on Sneath Lane. This development would consist of nine buildings housing 176 units, behind the present project now rapidly nearing completion.

Commissioner Leon Miller complained that some of the proposed buildings were only 25 feet apart when the ordinance calls for a minimum of 30 feet.

The commissioners decided to seek a meeting of highway representatives and the owners of the four parcels of the Rollingwood Shopping Center, including Sambos, 7-11 Market and Mobil Oil Corp. Deputy City Attorney Fitzgerald reported that the present confusion in which no one will agree to landscape the slope between the center and the Junipero Serra Freeway, may have been innocently caused.

"The highway representative probably told Leonard, when they sold him the land, that they will plant it . . . meaning rye grass to stop erosion. He might have taken it to mean landscaping — which is certainly what he told the people he sold it all to."

The planners authorized a letter to Tanforan Dodge, ordering its representatives to be present at the November 1 meeting to prove that the firm is not in violation in its leasing of two parking lots from the El Camino Theater for car storage. This use has been the object of bitter protests from bars and restaurants near the theater who claim that the parking that they had paid for has been usurped and their patrons have no place to park.

Arson Seen In S.S.F. Fire

An early morning blaze in a South San Francisco laundry and dry cleaning establishment has been termed arson by Fire Chief John Marchi.

The fire was noticed by a cruising police unit at 204 Miller Avenue at about 25 minutes past midnight Wednesday.

Marchi said structural damage was estimated at $6,000. There was no estimate as to content loss. Marchi said "it will be extensive."

This is the second time an arson attempt has been made on the establishment "for unknown reasons," said the authorities. A fire was started at the site last October 9.

A series of resolutions were alopted Monday night by South San Francisco councilmen, giving the green light to development of Cabot, Cabot and Forbes Industrial Park Unit 3.

Councilmen authorized the hiring of Piombo Corporation on a low bid of $449,703.25 for construction of improvements. The engineer's estimate was $539,398.75.

Windswept Brush Fire In Daly City

Gusting winds and darkness hampered Daly City and San Francisco firemen fighting a spectacular two acre brush fire in the Southern Hills section of Daly City Friday night.

No one was hurt in the roaring blaze which shot flames 30 feet high into the sky and was visible for miles around.

Battalion chief Frank Specht said the fire bypassed homes in the area "because residents chopped the brush away from their back fences earlier this year."

Specht said it took the combined departments working in hilly terrain more than an hour to put out the fire and mop up.

A fire in San Bruno Friday that heavily damaged an abandoned residence was under investigation by fire inspectors today.

The blazed broke out in the attic of a one story wood frame structure owned by the State Division of Highways.

No estimate of damage was available. A fire department spokesman said the building is to be torn down to make way for a new freeway.

The alarm was received at 11:39 p.m. when a passerby spotted smoke and flame coming from the building at 900 Seventh Street.

Firemen controlled the fire within 30 minutes, it was reported.

Welfare Fund Buys Car; Man Jailed

A Daly City man who used welfare payments to buy a car has been sentenced to six months in county jail by Northern District Municipal Judge Walter Capaccioli.

The sentence was imposed after Ricardo Yuzon, 35, and his wife, Dorothy, 34, both unemployed, pleaded guilty to welfare fraud before Judge Capaccioli. Mrs. Yuzon was placed on two years' probation on condition that she make restitution through the Adult Probation Office.

According to District Attorney's Inspector Guillermo H. Tovar, the Yuzons, parents of five children ranging in age from 5 to 13 years, used $310 of aid to families with needed children funds to purchase the car.

Tovar noted that both Yuzons were on probation at the time for a previous conviction of welfare fraud in which they received $1831 more than they were entitled to in welfare assistance.

D.C. Opposes Boundary

The Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors October 12 voted unanimously to send telegrams to elected representatives in Sacramento expressing opposition to the proposed reapportionment plan "carving up Daly City."

Under proposed legislation pending in Sacramento Daly City would be split with some 20,000 residents being lumped into a larger San Francisco district.

"This would leave about 20,000 persons in Daly City without representation," director Jim Howe pointed out. "It means they would be represented by someone who owes allegiance to San Francisco and not San Mateo County.

Acting on Howe's report the Chamber sent telegrams to Senator Arlen Gregorio, Governor Reagan and assemblyman Leo Ryan opposing the reapportionment plan.

Pacifican On Probation

James V. Keola, 68-year-old Pacifica man was placed on two years probation and sentenced to 60 days in county jail October 12 after pleading guilty in Superior Court to a charge of vehicular manslaughter.

Pacifica police said that Keola was the driver of a car which struck two parked cars and a cement wall October 3, 1970, killing a one-month-old girl, Natalie Goumeni, who was a passenger in the Keola vehicle with her father, Donald Goumeni.

In imposing sentence, Judge Gerald E. Ragan said that he would recommend that Keola be permitted to serve his jail time in the work-furlough facility.

Anti-380 Group Criticizes Judge

Spokesmen for the "380-Eight," one of the groups which started the fight against the extension of Freeway 380 through Crestmoor Canyon, has chided the judge who denied an injunction that would have halted construction work on the San Bruno-to-Pacifica project.

The San Bruno city council, its legal counsel and mayor similarly were criticized for subsequent actions and comments after the decision of Judge Melvin Cohn was announced Wednesday.

Mark Focum and John Spivalo, in speaking for the "380-Eight," said Judge Cohn's ruling that initiative petitions were illegal was unfounded, since no one ever presented the petition to him officially.

"He was ruling on whether an injunction was to be permanent, and not on the initiative measure we circulated," the pair said in a news release late Thursday.

The San Bruno city attorney also was criticized for "interpreting Judge Cohn's decision this way."

Judge Cohn was rapped by the two for not sending his opinion to the plaintiff who had filed the injunctive action, Mrs. Sylvia Gregory or her attorney, former San Bruno City Councilman Ted Long.

Both are described as leaders in the anti-380 movement.

The San Bruno city council, its attorney and the San Bruno Herald received information of Judge Cohn's decision before the plaintiff or her attorney, the two charged.

"This is a very strange set of events," they said.

The council should not have ignored the more than 2200 citizens who signed the anti-380 petition, Focum and Spivalo said.

"Their failure to count the petitions shows how unresponsive the council is," the duo said. "They cannot ignore the wishes of those many people. They are all interested citizens who will not sit idly by as the council ignores their concerns regarding 380," the young men said.

The spokesmen said that on a similar San Bruno petition, "allegedly 'illegal,' Judge Cohn pointed out that the will of the people should be heard and that the council went ahead and had the petition counted."

They did not elaborate.

An ordinance had been filed, along with the petitions, with City Clerk Carl Hultberg, who Wednesday night sought the city council's viewpoint on whether or not he should obtain extra help his staff verify the signatures.

Mayor Maurice Hamilton Wednesday termed the ordinance, "unbelievable," reading a passage which he said would have restricted all municipal roadwork as well as halt the freeway project.

"Mayor Hamilton must not have done his homework," the two charged. They cited a section of the proposed ordinance which they said specifically allowed for municipal street maintenance.

The pair also was critical of a newly emerged anti-380 group.

Labeling that group as "compromising backyard conservationalists," they said it was "only being concerned with the one part of the freeway that directly affects them."

School Board, Too

San Bruno Council Asking for Hearing

San Bruno Park School trustees last week voted to ask the State Division of Highways for a public hearing to evaluate the extension of Route 380 through Crestmoor Canyon.

Their move followed by a few days a request by the San Bruno Park P-TA Coordinating Committee for a similar public hearing.

"There are a number of questions we want answered," Superintendent Bill Jennings said, "such as air pollution and noise abatement."

The board's action was in reply to a request from the State for comments on the Environmental Report on the proposed freeway. The board has until October 27 to make them.

Trustees discussed the effect on the "quality of life" of having 2½ million cubic yards of dirt moving from Sweeney Ridge toward Bayshore, past two busy schools, over the next three years.

Schools to be affected are Crestmoor Elementary and Engvall Intermediate.

A delegation of citizens had appeared at the board to request action on 380, but after the board first announced its action, the delegation simply thanked them.

Mrs. Rose Urbach of Euclid Avenue charged that the state broke a promise when they took North Brae School, and wanted to know what the state was going to do with the property now that they have it. Jennings told her that the state bought the site for $159,000 "and then gave us the property back."

Judge Melvin Cohn Wednesday denied petition for a preliminary injunction to stop construction of Freeway 380 through Crestmoor Canyon.

The jurist also issued an opinion that an election to rescind the freeway agreements between the state and the City of San Bruno would have no legal result.

San Bruno's municipal leaders said last night they understood the judge's opinion to mean that local ordinances would be invalid in the face of state legislation, since the state has pre-empted the field of freeway construction.

Technically, the state now may proceed with the construction work.

No one in municipal government expects that to happen immediately, however, and there were indications in a letter to the city council that the Division of Highways may revise its thoughts on the freeway's design.

The council voted to urge the Division of Highways to call a public hearing in San Bruno that the recent, controversial Environmental Impact report can be aired.

Acting City Mgr. Leo Van Dusen was instructed to work with state officials for a mutually acceptable hearing date.

The San Bruno Park School District earlier in the week had called for such a hearing also.

San Bruno City Attorney Joseph Galligan yesterday ruled that petitions with names of 2267 persons opposing the extension of the 380 freeway from Junipero Serra to the Cabrillo freeway were invalid, essentially for the same reasons outlined in Judge Cohn's opinion.

Pacifica Council Stands Pat

Petitions requesting Pacifica officials to reverse their stand favoring extension of Interstate 380 to that city from San Bruno were accepted by Mayor Grace McCarthy October 12.

However, she and the rest of the city's legislative body took no action to change their original position favoring the freeway.

Referring to the proposed Division of Highways-designated Portola Freeway, Mrs. McCarthy told the anti-freeway group she hopes "we can work together for a good road."

On July 12 Mrs. McCarthy and Mayor Maurice Hamilton of San Bruno jointly signed a letter to the highway people saying both cities had agreed to the concept of 380 for many years.

The matter was listed on the agenda as a request of Clark L. Natwick, South San Francisco Unified School District teacher, to address the council regarding the highway.

He never spoke. Instead, five others came forward to give their reasons why the city should rescind its agreement with the state. They were Jean Curry, Lisa Simons, Mary McClure, Harry Moseley and David Limcaco.

The council members were handed a bundle of petitions said to be signed by 1,248 persons. The council members were told that 923 names were those of Pacifica residents and 425 represented names of people living outside the city.

Not meant as an official document, the "People's Petition" was presented in hopes the council would rescind the freeway agreement and develop a public transit system instead.

The petition gatherers also called for a public hearing with the state on the "environmental impact" of the freeway and allow an "outside expert" to testify on ecological repercussions the proposed freeway would bring.

Opponents of the freeway said the road would subject Pacifica to "intolerable" pressures for development. They said it would desecrate the dedicated open space in the San Francisco water shed, destroy Crestmoor Canyon, ravage the coast mountain range above the Fairway and Vallemar sections of Pacifica, intensify pressures to construct a freeway on Highway 1 south to Half Moon Bay and eliminate 60 to 70 acres of Vallemar flatland from commercial or recreational use.

The petition was prepared by members of Keep Pacifica Scenic, in cooperation with Ecology Action in Pacifica, the Loma Prieta Chapter of Sierra Club, Committee For Green Foothills "and others interested in protecting our environment."

Councilman Stan Farber said the council is not unaware of these matters. "But nobody says anything about safety. What happens if there is a major disaster? How do we get the 18,000 people in Linda Mar out of this town if the main highway is not functioning?" asked Farber.

Councilman Nick Gust suggested that the work put in by the petition gatherers was nowhere near the time any one of the council members has spent in "reviewing, studying and trying to come up with the best solution for the citizens of this community."

Gust also contended that the need for the freeway is here and "you (in the audience) have made that a reality."

Councilmen Dan Modena and Harland Minshew both concurred, keeping the council's position favoring the freeway unanimous.

A Sunday night communion service is held at the church building at 7 p.m.

S.S.F. Youth Is Fatally Shot

A 19-year-old South San Francisco youth fatally shot himself with a rifle in a friend's apartment in Redwood City early Monday, police report.

Michael Robert Gunderson, of 616 Kingcrest Drive, died in surgery at Sequoia Hospital at 7:22 a.m., just about five hours after he fired the shot from a .22 rifle into his chest while sitting on a couch in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Daynes, 450 Redwood Avenue.

Police Lt. Robert LaBerge reported that both Gunderson and Daynes, also 19, said the shooting was accidental.

According to the lieutenant, the two youths had been rabbit hunting Saturday, then had gone to another friend's birthday party Saturday night, returning to the Daynes apartment just a short time before the 2:45 a.m. shooting.

Daynes told Policeman Donald G. Wyman that Gunderson sat on the couch and picked the rifle he had been using for hunting, apparently believing it wasn't loaded. Daynes said he was walking into the bedroom when he heard a shot and turned to see Gunderson slumping on the couch.

LaBerge said doctors at the hospital reported the bullet hit the breastbone and was defelected downward through the liver, intestines and a kidney, creating intensive internal bleeding.

Gunderson is survived by his mother, Mrs. Dorothy Dang, with whom he made his home.

Funeral arrangements are under the direction of Nauman and Lincoln Chapel, South San Francisco.

Airlines Offer Cut Rates To Fill Those Big Planes

A price war breaking out in the airline industry naturally has people wondering if we're heading into an era of year-round cheap air travel.

It's too early to tell.

Huge vacation bargains by air are being offered right now by the domestic airlines. The cut rates over the Atlantic mostly don't go in effect until midwinter.

But such major domestic transcontinental carriers as United, American and TWA admit their big planes streaked across the heavens half empty most of the time this past summer. Even Eastern Air Lines, which enjoys big Florida travel in winter, says the summer now is its peak period.

During September, the first off-season month for the domestic carriers, the load factor dropped well below 50 per cent, an arbitrary breakeven point. But the big domestic airlines, with the blessing of the federal authorities, have just put in effect a capacity agreement.

It cuts out many flights and will mean fewer 250-passenger airliners will be taking off with only 40 to 100 seats occupied.

"Things began picking up in the first week in October anyway," a spokesman for American Airlines sair. "The general load factor improved, and in the routes between Chicago and New York and Chicago and Los Angeles, where we put the new McDonnell-Douglas DC-10s in service, 80 to 100 per cent of the seats have been occupied on many flights."

TWA and United spokesmen agreed that the capacity pact should improve load factors. All three companies said the off-season vacation bargains will fill a lot of seats. However, although some fare bargains are available to single passengers, most involve group rates and group travel, admittedly a minor part of the big carriers' overall revenue.

All three domestic transcontinental majors also expressed concern that when the cut-rate Atlantic fares go into effect in midwinter many Americans will choose winter vacations abroad and drain business away from the domestic airliners.

As for next summer's outlook, the problem was faced succinctly by a regional marketing vice president of United Airlines.

Felony Case Is Dismissed

A case of felony wife beating and assault against a San Bruno man has been dismissed at South San Francisco Municipal Court.

Charges were dropped against Vagn Hansen, 50, of 401 S. San Anselmo Ave., arrested September 9 after police found Hansen's wife, Lita, lying on the floor in a semi-conscious condition.

Sharp Park Halt To Building Ruled

By BOB NETERSON

Pacifica city councilmen last week placed o 45-day moratorium on all building in the western section of Sharp Park, calling also for immediate public hearings on whether the freeze ought to be continued.

City Manager Jim Swayne had recommended a 90-day period as stipulated under the state government code. Under the code, at the end of 90 days and with a four-fifths vote of the council a moratorium may be extended for a year.

Swayne's purpose in requesting the moratorium is to determine whether a long-range plan of re-development should be pursued for the area.

The council members during the last budget session allocated $11,000 to the city's Department o f Community Development (Planning Department) for "unspecified economic development activity."

Swayne had recommended that $10,000 of this money be used to fund a study of what would be the most desirable method of upgrading the area.

He had recommended that a seven-member committee be established to develop a specific plan for the area, and that their studies be completed by October 1, 1972.

Councilman Dan Modena voted against the 45-day halt. He mentioned after the vote that with a minor change in the motion he would make it unanimous. He did not elaborate, as Mayor Grace McCarthy said the decision to approve the moratorium already passed.

The motion had been modified to prohibit further building except as necessary to bring existing structures up to code.

Swayne also suggested that Director of Community Development Les Clark may issue temporary permits for a 15-month period as long as they are not for new structures or alterations on existing structures.

There were several exceptions made a part of the adopted emergency interim ordinance. These included lands owned by state, county and North Coast County Water District.

It also includes lands affected by the installation of the new sewer treatment force main, plant and fishing pier (for which bids were let) and corporation yard of the city.

In addition lands owned by public utilities are exempt.

Swayne said that 61 per cent of the ownership of the area, bounded by the ocean, the freeway and between Paloma and Clarendon Avenues, is held by absentee landlords.

The city manager said this area has long been thought of the Pacifica's core area, with a need for public improvements, particularly streets.

He said there is an increasing development interest on a piecemeal basis, and increasing problems due to faulty design, age and deterioration of the existing structures.

Swayne said the new treatment plant and fishing pier would accentuate the upgraded area, and right now the area is a large question mark because of uncertainty caused by lack of specific city plans for the area.

Clark said there is a potential opportunity to reduce the number of streets in the area and possibly increasing the commercial advantage to the city.

"We are interested in coming up with a firm land use plan for the area," said Clark. "Maybe even show an increase in the economic outlook through an improved tax base."

The city's chamber of commerce board of directors sent a letter of approval of the moratorium, saying it was necessary for the purpose of determining more fully the future direction of developments in this area.

Pacificans Opposing Moratorium

Brief though it was several Pacificans last week expressed disfavor with the council decision to place a building moratorium in the western section of Sharp Park for 45 days.

One property owner, who earlier in the evening had obtained an okay on a rezoning allowing construction of an apartment complex said the decision would hurt him financially.

Don Crumley had received approval of a change of zoning from planned development to multiple family residential at a site adjacent to 2409 Beach Blvd., within the moratorium area.

He owns the property with Hazel Nickola and Vincent Cozzolino, neither of whom were in attendance. However, realtor John Geary spoke on their behalf against the moratorium.

Crumley said the moratorium was directed specifically at his proposed apartment complex. This was denied. He said that there had been $10,000 in escrow for months on the project and asked, to no avail, that his construction be exempt since it had been long in the works and already approved.

"The city has predetermined what it wants and is now forcing it on us," said another resident, calling for a public hearing on its merits.

Geary said he represents four property owners and although he approved of the need for upgrading the area he felt this was not the proper method. He said tentative plans for nearby properties call for construction of a restaurant, bar and motel.

"My ideas require it be done by private enterprise," he said.

The approval of the multiple residential zoning actually came about to rectify an error by the city on a map.

There was much discussion as to whether that zoning ought to be given, or to have the property revert back to a commercial-recreational zoning which it was before the mistake made it planned development.

Both Mayor Grace McCarthy and Councilman Nick Gust expressed concern that giving it a multiple residential zoning because that's what the general plan called for was "giving our blessing to multiple residential in that area."

Grand Jury Won't Probe Pacifica P.D.

The County Grand Jury will not investigate the Pacific Police Department as demanded by one of the department's former officers.

Jury Foreman A. B. Lindsey announced that the Grand Jury has no jurisdiction in the matter.

Ray Karczewski, a former Pacifica police sergeant, announced his intention to seek the investigation after he was denied a permit by the Pacifica city staff to operate a security patrol business from his home. He claimed that the police department didn't want him to work in the city and had threatened and harassed him.

Lindsey said there appears to be no violations of law in the matters about which Karczewski complained.

"The district attorney informed us the Grand Jury has no jurisdiction," the foreman stated.

Karczewski has subsequently been awarded his permit, with the city council overruling the staff.

Park Tour Set in S.S.F.

South San Francisco's councilmen and parks and recreation commissioners will tour that city's recreation and parks facilities Sunday afternoon.

The civic bodies recently met together to discuss the possibility of renovating the Magnolia Recreation Center as versus constructing a new facility at Orange Memorial Park, and maybe even buying some nursery property for park use.

Included in Sunday's tour will be the Magnolia center, Orange Park, the Buri Buri, Westborough and Clay Avenue parks and the Marina.

D.C. Shopper Cut Disarming Bandit

A shopper at the Mayfair Market on Mission Street in Daly City received a cut lip while disarming one of two armed men who held up the market and escaped with an estimated $10,000 Monday morning.

Six shoppers were in the store at 8 a.m. when the two robbers—one armed with a hunting knife and the other with a revolver—entered.

Mayfair Market Manager Larry Anderson and employee Ralph Martin were working at the safe near the front of the store when the pair came in.

The knife-wielding robber went to the rear of the building while his accomplice brandished a gun and forced the patrons to lie on the floor while cash from the safe was stuffed into a paper bag.

Roy Gale, 54, of San Diego, apparently unaware of what was happening at the front of the store, continued shopping.

Police said Gale was ordered at knifepoint to join the other patrons at the front of the store.

Instead of complying, Gale grabbed the knife away from the suspect and flung it into another aisle, where it stuck in the floor.

The robber hit Gale in the mouth and began throwing cans of dog food at him.

Police described the pair as blacks, about 20 to 25 years old, wearing dark clothing. One of the suspects wore sunglasses and a navy "watch" cap.

Job Training Project Set For South S.F.

An intensive job training and employment project is being investigated by the South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors.

If implemented, the project would aim at developing job skills for currently unemployed persons in South San Francisco, involving both education and on-the-job training at local businesses and industries.

Local businesses would join with the chamber in creating a job consortium. Also involved would be the National Alliance of Businessmen (NAB), the U.S. Department of Labor and the General Learning Corporation.

An 18-month program would be set up creating approximately 300 job training slots. It is hoped at least 200 persons can be placed as new regular workers drawing wages from the participating firms, said a chamber official.

The participating employers would be reimbursed by the Department of Labor for on-the-job training, supervisory training and other supportive services.

The role of the chamber would be to help provide "supportive services" through its sponsorship, officials said.

Individual employers will be solicited for the program. Firms solicited would be hiring from one to 500 employes.

Bruno Clerk, 'Bag Boy' Arrested

A San Bruno supermarket clerk and a 17-year-old "bag boy" were arrested by market security police Friday night and charged with grand theft.

David Lee Mason, 24, 800 Memorial Drive, Apt. 22, South San Francisco, and an unidentified juvenile, were arrested as they allegedly loaded a car with more than $270 worth of meats and cigarettes.

Police said the pair were spotted by a Safeway Stores security patrolman at the Pacific Heights Shopping Center leaving the store with 60 cartons of cigarettes, meats and lobster tails.

The juvenile was released to his parents. Mason was booked on charges of grand theft.

Consumer Speech Set

The San Bruno Branch of the American Association of University Women Tuesday at 8:30 o'clock at the San Bruno Library launched the Fall program with a topic of great concern to all citizens, "Consumerism — Can the Consumer Make an Informal Choice in the Marketplace?"

Sylvia Siegel, executive director of the Association of California Consumers, was the speaker. Mrs. Siegel said, "This is the year of the auto," and the Association of California Consumers has been directing their man efforts this year to wipe out frauds in auto repair, an abuse that costs California consumers millions of dollars a year. The ACC was formed in 1960 as a citizen's arm of the State Consumer Council and this produced many gains, ranging from poisons and unsafe toys to a law that virtually eiminated radio and television repair fraud in California.

Safe Theft Nets $584

The safe at Birdies Toys, Inc., in the Tanforan Mall at San Bruno is missing $584.62, according to San Bruno police, who say they have no suspects.

Police said employe Mazie Jean Martin found the money missing from the safe Saturday. It apparently had been removed between 10:30 a.m. and 5 p.m., police said.

According to police the safe was supposedly locked all this time.

QUESTION:

- Would you consider buying half a dining room set to fill a complete dining room?

ANSWER:

- Our competitors seem to think so for when they advertise, they give you a choice of chairs and table or china. At we feel that the average dining room set consists of a table, 2 arm and 4 side chairs and a china cabinet. Rather than make the customer add all the separate pieces, we price what the customer will more than likely buy.

EXAMPLE:

- This majestic Mediterranean dining room set includes table with leaves, 2 arm chairs, 4 side chairs and china cabinet. 56".

NELL NORTON

Sugar 'n Spice

Good morning, good cooks.

How about baking some cookies today? What with lunches, after school snacks and mother's afternoon tea with the gals, the cookie jar must be begging for a refill.

In anticipation of this need, I've been testing some cookie recipes. This first recipe comes from a good friend and neighbor, it's a rich bar cookie that's quite easy to make and makes quite a hit with the cookie eaters in the family.

OATMEAL-FUDGE BARS

Oatmeal Layer
½ cup shortening
1 cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
1 egg
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups quick-cooking oats
½ cup chopped walnuts

Grease a 9x9x2-inch baking pan.

In medium bowl, with a wooden spoon, beat the half cup shortening with the one cup brown sugar until fluffy. Beat in the egg and half teaspoon vanilla.

Sift the three-fourths cup flour with the half teaspoon each soda and salt and stir into creamed mixture. Add the two cups oats and half cup nuts and mix well.

Remove one cup mixture for topping. Press rest of mixture evenly into bottom of prepared pan.

FUDGE LAYER

1 pkg. (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
One-third cup canned milk
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped walnuts
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

In small saucepan, combine the 6-ounces chocolate bits, one tablespoon butter, one-third cup canned milk and fourth teaspoon salt. Cook, stirring, over low heat till chocolate and butter are melted. Remove from heat and stir in the half cup walnuts and one teaspoon vanilla.

Spread chocolate mixture over oatmeal layer. Sprinkle top with reserved oatmeal mixture.

Bake 25 minutes, or until surface is lightly browned in 350-degree oven.

Let cool completely in pan or wire rack. Cut into 24 bars.

A good cook from Kentucky sent this recipe that combines fresh apples, nuts and raisins in a spicy drop cookie.

GLAZED FRESH APPLE COOKIES

½ cup shortening or margarine
1 and one-third cups brown sugar
1 unbeaten egg
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup chopped nuts
1 cup finely chopped, unpared tart apple
1 cup raisins
¼ cup milk

Place the one cup raisins in bowl and cover with hot water. Let stand until ready to use, then drain.

Cream the half cup margarine and one and one-third cups brown sugar. Add the unbeaten egg and mix well.

Sift together the two cups flour, one teaspoon baking soda, one teaspoon cinnamon and half teaspoon each salt and nutmeg. Add to creamed mixture and beat.

Fold in the one cup each nuts, apple and drained raisins. Lastly add the fourth cup milk and mix well.

Drop by teaspoonfuls onto a lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees 12 to 15 minutes until done. Makes 5 to 6 dozens.

GLAZE

1½ cups powdered sugar (sifted)
1 tablespoon margarine
¼ teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon salt
2½ tablespoons milk

In a small mixing bowl combine the one and one-half cups powdered sugar, one tablespoon margarine, fourth teaspoon vanilla, one eighth teaspoon salt and two and one-half tablespoons milk.

Spread on cookies while they are still hot.

USDA Choice

An important mark for shoppers to look for when buying food is the United States Department of Agriculture's grading stamp.

We usually see it as "USDA Choice" on cuts of meat, "U.S. Grade A" on poultry, "U.S. Grade A" on eggs or "U.S. Grade AA" on butter.

The USDA also inspects and grades cheese, instant nonfat dry milk, fresh and processed fruits and vegetables and rice, dry beans and peas.

I have found that there is some range of quality under the label "USDA Choice" on a sirloin steak, for example, You can purchase a sirloin for $1.79 a pound at one leading grocery store and for $1.39 a pound at another. Both steaks will be stamped "USDA Choice" but there will be a marked difference in tenderness and flavor.

However, the most important thing to me is the fact that the Department of Agriculture looked it over before it was offered for sale. It's a pretty good bet that you won't get some strange disease from an inspected product.

And you can wager your spatula that I won't buy a chicken from Arkansas or Mississippi that hasn't earned that vital little USDA mark.

According to the Department of Agriculture, the U.S. grade standards provide a means of classifying the entire range of the quality of a product. Because some products are naturally more variable than other, it is necessary to have more grades for some products than for others.

Quality in general refers to the usefulness, desirability, and value of a product — its marketability.

For beef, veal, lamb and mutton, quality grades predict the eating quality of the meat. Eating quality is indicated by the color, firmness, texture and marbling of the meat in relation to its maturity or age. The range of quality in beef requires eight grades; in veal and calf, six; and in lamb and mutton, five. The top three grades for all of them are U.S. Prime, U.S. Choice and U.S. Good.

In poultry, standards measure table quality in terms of proportion of edible meat in relation to bone, the finish of the bird, and freedom from defects such as cuts, tears and bruises. Tenderness is not a grade factor, because it relates chiefly to the age difference between young and older birds and is indicated separately in labeling (i.e. fryers). Turkey, chicken, duck, goose, guinea and squab may be graded U.S. Grade A, B or C.

Eggs are graded according to quality and size. Quality means appearance of the egg and its suitability to various methods of cooking. A three-ounce weight difference per dozen marks the variation between sizes. Eggs are graded U.S. Grade AA or Fresh Fancy, Grade A and Grade B. Sizes are U.S. Jumbo, Extra Large, Large, Medium, Small and Peewee. One dozen Large eggs weighs at least 24 ounces.

In butter and Cheddar cheese, standards define levels of eating quality, based on flavor, texture, and body. Age or degree of cure is also a factor in Cheddar cheese. Grade names are U.S. Grades AA, A and B.

With instant nonfat dry milk, quality factors are flavor, color uniformity, bacterial count, dispersibility, solubility index, and moisture and milkfat content. The U.S. grade name is U.S. Extra.

Standards for both fresh and processed fruits and vegetables vary with the individual product. Factors involved are usually color, shape, size, maturity and number and degree of defects. For some products, especially those that are processed, flavor and tenderness are also rated. The typical range of grades for fresh fruits and vegetables includes U.S. Fancy, U.S. No. 1 and U.S. No. 2. U.S. No. 1 is the chief trading grade for most products. Grade names for processed fruits, vegetables and related products are U.S. Grades A, B, and C.

In rice, dry beans and peas, standards measure uniformity of shape, size and color, moisure content, damage and foreign material. Grades range from U.S. No. 1 to U.S. No. 6 for rice, No. 1 to No. 3 for dry peas and No. 1 to No. 3 and U.S. Substandard for dry beans.

(Next week: Stay tuned for Uncle Sam's techniques of inspecting and grading.)

Terra Nova Topics

By Rockie Montenegro

It seems that with all the innovations that modern education is going through and the introduction of new teaching techniques and modular scheduling, that Terra Nova's Girls' P.E. department is behind the times.

One of the program's most obvious faults is the inadequate amount of time allowed for each day. A normal school period lasts for 50 minutes. After the ten minutes before P.E. and the ten minutes after P.E. is allowed for changing into P.E. clothes and back into school clothes, there are only 30 minutes left for participating in the scheduled physical time spent in walking to and from the fields or gym, the time spent in taking roll, and the time cut off once a week for Activity Schedule, and you are left with only 25 minutes or less for the actual P.E. time.

Wouldn't it make sense to have P.E. under a modular scheduling system, with maybe three full 60-minute sessions a week rather than the five short 30-minute sessions?

Also disturbing to me is the excessive use of competition in the games and P.E. units as a "motive" for doing better. There isn't a P.E. unit or activity that I can think of (with the exception of folk dancing and perhaps swimming) in which the method of accumulating the most points or winning tournaments (which are between the "best" teams) is not employed. I look upon this practice as being psychologically unhealthy, and contributing to the already large amount of pressure that a student goes through.

Not only do the points accumulated through physical performance count on a student's P.E. grade, but participation and dress points, where girls get points taken off from their five possible points a day if they are dressed improperly (ie. if you don't have a blouse on under a sweatshirt or if you have on the wrong colored socks) also is used in determining grades. I think this phobia about dress points is a useless triviality.

Since P.E. grades are not counted as an academic grade, a "pass-fail" grading system would seem sensible. It gives P.E. a more relaxed atmosphere, and would increase the pleasure of the sport as a sport, and would decrease the pressure of competition.

Since the excelling girl athletes are segregated from the good or average girl athletes in the form of "advanced P.E." the girls who are good in athletics and gymnastics and who want to complete already have the opportunity to do so.

Wouldn't it be nice if Girls' P.E. could be a fun, recreational time that would be looked forward to instead of the competitive, strictly regimented, time-cramped program which it is now?

GG Park Tour Set for Seniors

Daly City Garden Club tour chairman, Bill Braas, has planned a tour for members and their guests at Golden Gate Park Conservatory in San Francisco, October 30.

A picnic has been planned, weather permitting.

Louanne Heath's Datebook

Looking for a Glorious Day

Just a few more lovely days are in store for us during this Indian Summer period and members of the Westlake Catholic Women are counting on November 3 being one of those glorious, late summer days when the sun shines, the breezes waft warmly — but with a hint of fall, and everyone enjoys having a last lazy outing before the gray of winter.

Mrs. Edward Avanzino and her committee have selected that particular date, and that variety of weather, for the Westlake Catholic Women's Day at the Races, an event of growing popularity among the north peninsula parish members.

Assisting Mrs. Avanzino with the arrangements for the Bay Meadows jaunt are Mrs. Richard Gallaini, Mrs. Dominic Oliveri and Mrs. Alfred Swadley.

According to Mrs. Donald Gianfermo, publicity chairman for the guild, the tickets are now on sale and anyone wishing to make reservations, or desiring more information about the Day at the Races benefit, should call Mrs. Avanzino at 755-7959.

As in the past the $7.50 ticket will include everything for the day beginning with transportation to the track, admission, a reserved seat in the Turf Club, a sumptuous luncheon at the Coach Room, and transportation back to Westlake.

NOW LESS THAN a month away is the Mary's Help Hospital Guild's Christmas Boutique!

Mrs. Helen Corbett, Mrs. Barbara Castello and Mrs. Joanne Coniglio are the co-chairmen of this lovely fantasyland of gifts and decorations that are always elegantly previewed by localites who faithfully watch for the annual sale of handmade items. Early indications are that there will be an abundance of fine guest towels, gift aprons, and attractively finished dish towels for your holiday giving in addition to all the novelty items and holiday decorations.

Among the newest members of the guild's volunteer work force are Mrs. Lillian Bertucci, Mrs. Donald Brachu, Mrs. Helen Cepernich, Mrs. John O'Rourke, Mrs. Jose Rodriquez, Mrs. James Spencer, Mrs. Joan Stack, Mrs. Henry Stefanetti and Mrs. Allen Torklakson.

ALSO INCREASING the size of its membership is the Fifty Plus Club of Pacifica.

Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan, president of the senior citizens club, lists Mr. and Mrs. John Hulme, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Derrenger. Mrs. Pearl Derrenger, Mrs. Eva Stoddard, Mrs. Gladys Marshall, Mrs. Marjorie Henderson and George Warren as some of the newest initiates.

Other new names on the roll are Mrs. Adalee Merlin, Mrs. Mary Tague, Mrs. Cissy Marrell, Mrs. Margaret Mermon, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dolhlerg, Mrs. Riga Yates, Mrs. Olive Reddy, Mrs. Maureen Gabriel and Mrs. Mary Gleeson.

Mrs. Elizabeth Murray, Mrs. Patricia Murray, Sam Lombardi, Mrs. Gladys Grimm, Mrs. Thelma Van Winkle, Mrs. Mae Rains, Mrs. Melvina Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Jackson and Mrs. Olive Lowney are also new to the club.

Plans are currently under way for the club's annual Hallowe'en party which will be staged at the Pacifica Library next Tuesday. This lively occasion will be one for costumes, dancing and old fashioned story telling as well as games and prizes. Maral Smith and Mrs. Dorothy Arnold are making the arrangements for the evening of fun. Mrs. Calhan has issued a special appeal for everyone to come in costume — any type — to add to the fun and gaity of the party. A prize will be offered for costuming and for dancing the waltz and the fox trot so be sure and dust off your dancing slippers to wear with the fancy dress.

When just about everyone has put their suitcases away and given up thoughts of vacations for another year, Mrs. Murray H. Freedman calls with a report of an unbelievable 11 days in Spain.

Mrs. Freedman reports that she is now dieting strenuously as a result of dipping too freely into the bowls of paella and gazpacho served to her and other tour members as they sojourned about the Spanish countryside watching flamenco dancers in the Zorres Bereinejas in Madrid, matadors in the arena at Palma Majorca, guides explaining ancient artifacts in the prehistoric caves of Nerja on the Costa del Sol and seeing the sights of Malajo from an open carriage in the moonlight.

MRS. FREEDMAN left from New York on Iberia Air Lines for the sight seeing jaunt which included stops at Toledo, Costa Brava, Ibiza, Madrid and the village of Benalmodena where the mayor went on a walking tour with the tourists and proudly exhibited the new museum and new, modern buildings which are going up in Spain before hosting a reception in their honor.

This trip offered Mrs. Freedman an opportunity to see many old castles and building of artistic or historic significance which the Spanish government is now hoping to preserve profitably by equipping the ancient edifices with modern conveniences and installing Paradores, or government operated inns.

Most amazing to Mrs. Freedman was the large number of summer home colonies which are springing up throughout the country, and which seem to be attracting huge numbers of English, German and American citizens who select Spain for the site of their "summer cottage" or more appropriately little villa de Verano.

LOCALITES WILL be saddened to learn that Armin Oliveras, longtime band leader and teacher passed away last week in San Francisco.

FERN TRACY, a senior, has qualified as a semi-finalist in the National Achievement Scholarship Program. To qualify as a semi-finalist, Fern's Merit Scholarship Test result and school transcript were reviewed. The S.A.T. test Fern will take this year will be a decisive factor if she is to advance into the finals.

THE FLEISHACKER Handicapped Center near the San Francisco zoo has become a concern of Jefferson Volunteers.

Hearing of the need for volunteers through their physiology teacher Emmett Tierney, four students went to the center. Two of the students, Karen Jolivette and Carol Badran, are using the experience for a physiology report and Jose Cistillo and another student participated as interested parties.

More students are volunteering to use their talents for the benefit of others and it looks as if Jefferson volunteers will make a great contribution to the center.

THE SENIOR CLASS girls have nominated three girls to participate in the D.A.R. (Daughters of the American Revolution) Program this year. The students are Carol Badran, Barbara Verniest, and Sue McAllister.

'Spider Trap' Theme For Grundy Benefit

San Bruno's Citizens for Grundy Park chairman, Mrs. Louis Aliventi, announced their second fund-raiser of the year on October 30.

The neighborhood group will sponsor a community dance to continue raising money for transforming the vacant lot, formerly known as Cherry Park, into an attractive, well-designed recreation area for San Bruno children.

"Spider's Trap" is the name for this gala with a Halloween theme. Guests are invited to wear costumes to the San Bruno Recreation Center for the 8 p.m. cocktails, buffet and dancing to live music.

Dance Chairman Mrs. Ron (Alma) Golden said, "Our first effort was a fantastic success so we decided to do it again. I'd advise people to get tickets early because last time we were sold out and we can't sell tickets at the door.

"Everyone now recognizes the need for these community events. We're doubly pleased that the money is being used for much-needed park improvements."

Also assisting with the dance are Mesdames Richard Brautigam, Lido Tognoli and Bud Sandkulla.

Tickets are $3 per person and can be purchased from any citizens' group member.

MRS. RICHARD (MARGE) Brautigam (right), decorations chairman for the "Spider's Trap," is displaying a poster she made for the fund-raising buffet dance for the Citizens' for Grundy Park. Admiring the poster art are (left to right) Mrs. Ron Golden, dance chairman, and Mrs. Louis Aliventi, citizens' chairman. The dance will have a Halloween motif and guests are encouraged to wear costumes. The dance is at 8 p.m. on October 30 at the San Bruno Recreation Center.

Pacifica Jaycees Set $2,000 Goal

The Pacifica Jaycees, led by John Plato and Ray Manley, have accepted chairmanship of the Miss Pacifica Pageant Scholarship Foundation solicitation committee.

In making the announcement after last week's Jaycee meeting, Pageant Executive Director Aubrey Lumley said he was pleased that the Jaycee organization is taking part in this civic project sponsored by the Pacifica Chamber of Commerce.

"There are many talented members in the local Jaycee Chapter and these talents have sorely been missed in the past couple of years."

The pageant official also announced that the young lady chosen to succeed the reigning Miss Pacifica, Debbie Lawler, next April will receive a $1000 educational scholarship and the runner-ups will be awarded the remaining Raymond Whitney Memorial Scholarships ranging from $100 to $500.

This will be the largest scholarship total of the 16-year-old Miss Pacifica Pageant.

In keeping with the number of firsts the local pageant has scored in the Miss California Pageant, it will be the largest amount of scholarships awarded by any of the some thirty-five other Miss California Preliminary Pageants.

Educational Scholarship is one of the many goals of the Miss America-Miss California awarded in 1970 over $850,000 in scholarships nationwide.

Seeking a goal for Pacifica of $2000, the Jaycees will be contacting all organizations for contributions. Individual donations are also being solicited, and are tax deductible.

Donors will be recognized in the Pageant's Souvenir Program Book.

The Next Best Thing to An Encounter Group

By JOHN HORGAN

There is no shouting here and the general tone is one of good-humored calm.

This is not an encounter group. And it's definitely not a form of group therapy.

But it may be the next best thing for people who want to learn to grow and to come to terms with themselves.

Dr. Erwin Gordon calls his course "In Search of Self and Pursuit of Others" and it may be unique in that it takes a non-psychological everyday approach to the multi-faceted nature of man and his relation with his fellows.

Couched strictly in laymen's terms, the course is a quiet blend of non-aggressive discussions, lectures, work assignments, formulas and even, yes, a hint of some self-analysis.

All of these are blended together into a kind of relaxed atmosphere each Monday at the Millbrae Library's community room.

"I use the fail-safe method in all this," he said this week. "If you don't like something that's being done here then don't do it. The degree of success depends on you. There is nothing mysterious about what we are doing. It's not tied in with any movement or anything like that.

"I'm trying to help people to grow, to learn the value of knowing their complete selves. It is not self-analysis. Psychology is not my discipline. And I wouldn't anticipate that people who come here are necessarily troubled by any means. I don't think that would be fair."

What Gordon, a Burlingame resident, does is to break down the nature of man into what he calls are six realms. Those areas are: Mental; emotional; physical; spiritual; sexual, and esthical.

Through an examination of those areas it is Gordon's opinion that men and women can find out more about themselves and, as a consequence, become more involved with other people.

One of the keys to Gordon's method is what he says about the process of examining each realm of self: "The process is what counts. This is practice and the search for self is the process. Retrospection and introspection are both used. It is practice in focusing on the self. The idea is to get a close-up of yourself. You go back and then come in tight. It is an indirect search, but in a large group like this one that's the way it has to be."

Gordon has about 35 persons, most of them middle-aged women, in his class.

He has divided a person's life into five dimensions as well: The personal; the social; the ecological; time, and growth.

During the first three weeks of the course Gordon said he will try to help the participants learn more about themselves. Then, in the last three sessions, he will work on relating that to others.

He stresses a pre-arranged program of so-called lecture-work seminars which involve brief talks by Gordon and then a couple of tasks which help to bring out certain aspects of what he was talking about.

The aim, he explained, is to practice the individual search.

This week, he had the participants divide their lives into three time segments (childhood, teen-age and the present) and then describe themselves at those ages in terms of six realms of self.

Some of the people had difficulty with the assignment and some felt that it actually wasn't substantial enough. One woman said it was probably not possible for a person to be completely honest in such an assignment because of the size and nature of the group.

Most of the persons in the class don't know one another. Most would rather not reveal their inner-most problems and thoughts to total strangers. So, as it was this week, the outcome of the written and discussed search often turned into something less than totally revealing.

It was surely helpful for some, but for others it was merely scratching the surface.

But Gordon doesn't claim to want to dig deeply into anyone's psyche. On the contrary, he said more than once that his goal is to teach people to broaden themselves on their own.

For example, he recommended that the participants schedule one or two days in the near future during which they might get up at about 3 a.m. and spend the time until dawn walking and functioning. He said altering the life pattern like this, even in such a simple manner, could aid a person's awareness of himself.

"A lot is happening out there," he said. "I did this recently and I was amazed at how I was able to experience those realms of self by myself. It was really wild. I met people and they smiled at me. We said nice things to each other. I discovered a lot about my town and myself at that hour of the morning."

Gordon describes himself as a multicultural interdisciplinarian. He is an educational consultant and program engineer. He is an author. He has been a teacher, principal, district superintendent, curriculum director of a federal regional laboratory and a consultant to the U.S. Office of Education.

He is also a musician, linguist and a specialist in Asian languages and culture.

His special course is part of the College of San Mateo's Community Services Division.

Tourist Panel Wins Eager D.C. Support

Daly City Mayor Bernard Lycett was named as a director on the newly formed San Mateo County Tourist and Convention Bureau board October 12.

The council also agreed to set aside 12½ per cent of its hotel-motel tax for the bureau to be used in attracting tourism.

This was the first time cities have been given an opportunity to appoint their own representatives on such a board.

Formerly the subject of tourists and conventions came under the County Fair and Convention Bureau.

A multi-city committee made up of citizens from throughout the county recently reported their months-long study disclosed the former bureau did a hit or miss job on actual promotion of tourism and publicizing the area as a convention site.

Much of the Fair and Convention Bureau's time was occupied with organizing and running the annual county fair.

Many cities were upset when they learned some revenues from hotel-motel taxes were being used for the fair, and not solely for attracting tourists to the area.

The decision to separate tourist promotion and fair facilities was well received by cities.

Daly City welcomed the idea and decided to wholeheartedly support it, something they did not do with the former bureau.

The ruling to appoint directors from each city also appeals to many.

It is the first time cities have had a direct input into the governing body of such a bureau, one official said.

Pallas Wins School Post

Christo M. Pallas won his second attempt to become a member of the San Bruno Park School District Board of Trustees.

The 47-year-old father of four, who failed at the last school board election in April, yesterday won out in the special election for the seat vacated by San Bruno Councilwoman Margaret Kozkowski.

Mrs. Kozkowski resigned as a trustee when she was elected to the San Bruno council in that city's recent recall election.

Pallas obtained 669 votes out of 1,459 cast. There are 10,952 registered voters in the district's nine precincts.

Two other candidates were vying for the post. They were Victor Ogrey, currently a San Bruno planning commissioner, and Mrs. Barbara Ross, a San Bruno housewife active in civic affairs.

Ogrey came in second with 472 votes and Mrs. Ross tallied 314 in the lite voter turnout. Pallas becomes the fifth male member of the school board.

The new trustee is the owner of a television electronics sales and service business in San Francisco. He resides with his family at 1905 Donner Avenue, San Bruno.

Health Center Chief Named

Don Cahen, Millbrae resident, a San Francisco attorney, has been elected chairman of the Citizens' Advisory Committee of the Community Health Center of Peninsula Hospital and Medical Center. He succeeds Raymond Doyle, president, Russell College, Burlingame.

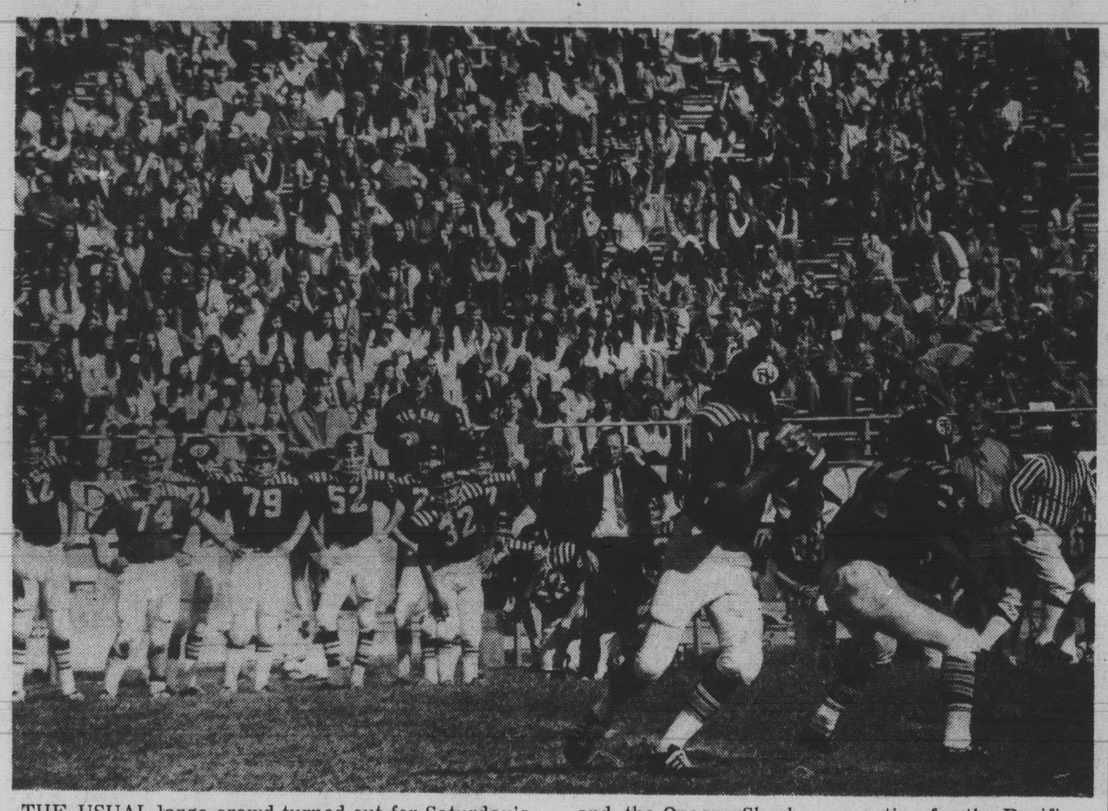
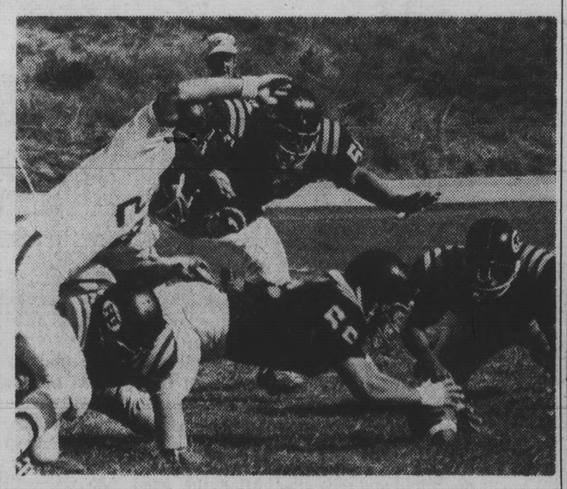
Rivalry in Pacifica



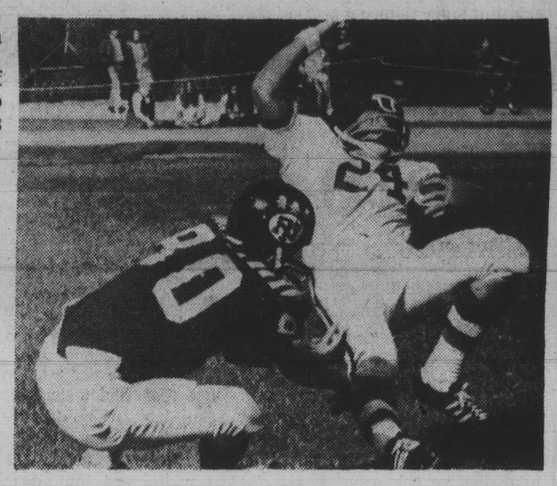
THE USUAL large crowd turned out for Saturday's annual "big game" between the Terra Nova Tigers and the Oceana Sharks, competing for the Pacifica "Anchor" award. (Post Photos)

THE POST'S SPORTS

Tigers Triumph, 14-0, in Annual Anchor Grid Tilt



TERRA NOVAN swiftly pounces on Oceana fumble.



FAR ENOUGH: Ocean comes to the end of the play.

Steve Garrison returned an Oceana punt 80 yards in the third quarter and Terra Nova defeated the Sharks, 14-0 in the tenth annual Anchor Game, at Terra Nova on Saturday.

The Anchor, the trophy which is emblematic of gridiron supremacy in Pacifica, was brought back to Terra Nova after a year's stay at Oceana. The Sharks won it last year by virtue of a 33-0 win after the Tigers had taken it via a 38-6 massacre in 1969. The series is now even at 5-5.

Late in the first quarter John Racanelli directed a drive starting from the Terra Nova 33. The Tiger quarterback completed four of five passes on the march for 53 yards, the last one going to split end John Riewerts for a nine-yard touchdown. Racanelli booted the extra point to make it 7-0.

In the third period, Garrison took a hand-off from Gary Pruitt off an Oceana punt and raced down the sidelines unscathed.

But it was the Terra Nova defense that deserves the accolades. The front linemen like Norm Lacy, Lee Johnson, Dave Bier, and Mike Johnson shut off the shark running game so effectively that when Jim Romero was forced to pass, he was always met by blitzing linebackers Joe Racanelli, Jim Gonzales, and Ron Mendez, or had his receivers blanketed by the Tiger secondary of Riewerts, Pruite, John Racanelli, and John Salomon.

Pacifica Judo Classes at Oceana, T.N.

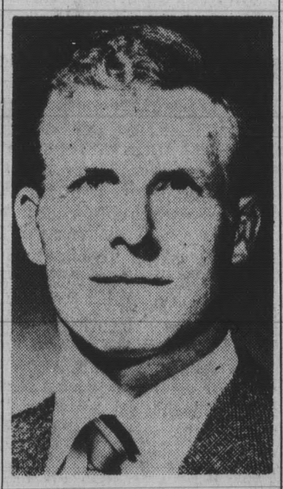
The fall session of the Pacifica Park, Beach & Recreation Department's judo program, conducted by Vernon Johnson, is continuing at Oceana and Terra Nova High Schools.

At Oceana, classes are conducted on Monday and Wednesday at 6:30, 7:30, and 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday at 6:30 and 7:30 p.m.; Friday night, 7-8:30; and Saturday from 10-11:30.

Classes at Terra Nova are conducted on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7-8 p.m. and on Saturdays from 10-11:30.

Registration for the program, which places its emphasis on the basic skills and philosophy of judo, is taken at any class time during the week.

Fee for the program is $3 a month, however, there are family and scouting rates available.



ROBERT BUEHLER, N.C.A.A. All American in wrestling, has joined the El Camino High School faculty for the 1971-72 school year. Buehler ranked in the top three of the United States, is an academic teacher and is currently teaching in the science department. In addition to his national ranking in wrestling, he has also had ten years with A.A.U. swimming. Buehler also will coach wrestling and swimming.

Cage Leagues Slated on Coast

The Pacifica Parks, Beaches & Recreation Department will sponsor its annual fall adult basketball league, to be played on Tuesday nights in the Oceana High School gym.

The Hunch Basketball League, will be played on Monday nights in the Oceana High School Gym.

The Hunch League will have three divisions, they will be as follows: Division "A" for over 25 years of age, Division "B" for under 25 years of age, and Division "C" for high school age boys.

Deadline for signing up a ball club is today.

SKI LESSONS

A four week beginning ski lessons program is being offered by the Pacifica Park, Beach & Recreation Department. The course at Sharp Park School will provide participants the opportunity for the development of basic skills and techniques used in skiing.

Falcons' Big Day Marred by Fight

By CHRIS STAVE

Crestmoor High School's bonafide arrival in the Mid-Peninsula League football big-time marked a new high of sorts, and an unfortunate low as well.

The Falcons completely overpowered Mills at Capuchino on Friday, 35-0, proving that their sensational preseason was no fluke. It's official. Crestmoor can beat good teams as well as the weak ones.

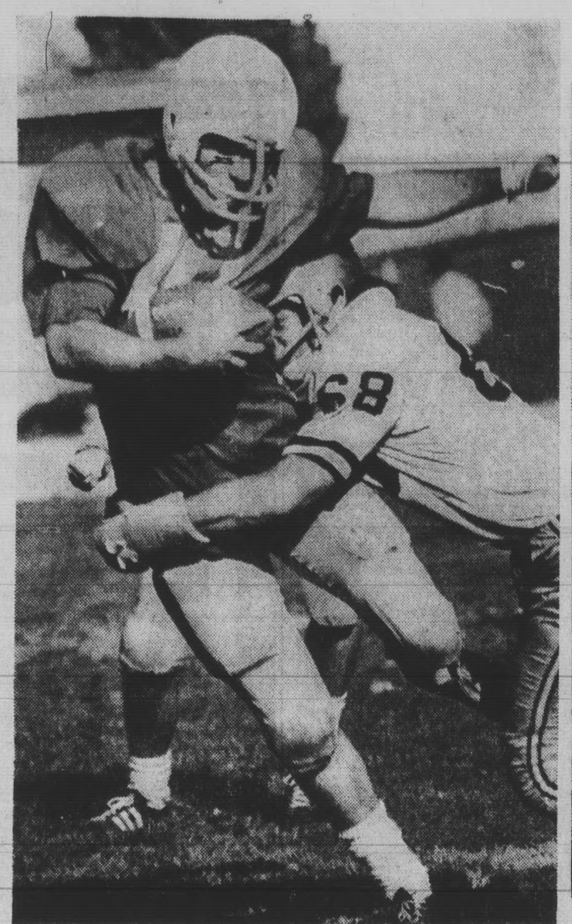
What happened after the game was a pity — it took the bloom off one of Crestmoor's finest hours in sport. An angry word passed from a Crestmoor player to a sports-writer on the field; the writer said that he then grabbed the player's facemask. The player reacted by hitting him in the mouth, splitting his lip and knocking out a front tooth.

That was the climax to a punishing, physical game in which 27 penalties were called and 199 yards marched off. But when the flags weren't falling, Crestmoor outran, outpassed and outmuscled the Vikings.

The Falcons ran 62 plays and averaged 6.6 yards on each. Mills managed 45 for a 1.8 yard average. Crestmoor ran for 222 yards and passed for 190 more. Mills got 15 yards net on the ground and 65 in the air.

The game was even for a quarter, although it didn't start that way. Crestmoor took the opening kickoff to the Mills 48, and covered the rest of the distance to paydir' in two plays. The first was a 30-yard tos. from Tod Jarvis to halfback George Ama. Ama then swept right end for 18. Steve Roller, the Falcons' biggest ground-gainer,

(Please See Page 19)



MILLS TRIED — The Vikings tried in vain to establish their usually strong rushing game on Friday against Crestmoor, but always ran into someone like Mike DeBono (68), shown here crunching Dave Mitchell behind the line.

AND TRIED — But the Vikings were held to a net ground gain of 15 yards. Quarterback Jay Merrill (17) could find precious little running room; the holes were filled by the likes of two-way standout Bob Scholl (82).

Jeff-WHS Game Off: Vandalism

Apparent inter-school athletic rivalry went a bit far late Thursday evening and forced the cancellation of the Friday Westmoor - Jefferson High School North Peninsula League football contest.

School officials from both campuses decided to postpone the game after approximately $2000 damage was done to the Westmoor campus on the eve of the Jefferson football game.

The game was slated to be played Monday afternoon but the final decision on the site was still pending.

No damage to the Jefferson campus was reported.

The Westmoor football field, by contrast, was in shambles when the faculty arrived Friday morning. The electric scoreboard on the gridiron had been badly dented and the electric circuitry had been ripped apart.

The gardener's shack, also located near the field, had been set afire and only quick action by the fire department saved the building from being completely destroyed. The Westmoor High School sign, posted at the school's entrance, had also been torn down. (Games Story, Page 19)

HMB Gives El Camino Scare

By JERRY LITTRELL

"You've come a long way, baby" is a slogan that can easily apply to Half Moon Bay High School, a football team that just a few seasons ago was the laughing stock of the gridiron.

Jerry Murphy's Cougars came very close to pulling their second upset in as many tries Friday, but the defense-minded El Camino Colts came through with a last-quarter touchdown to earn a 7-0 victory over the surprisingly adept Cougars at Clifford Field.

In the only other North Peninsula League outing, South San Francisco bested winless Serramonte, 48-0.

For three quarters neither Camino nor HMB was able to get close to paydirt. Then in one moment of brilliance the Camino offense, often as inspiring as a test pattern at 2 a.m., and just about as productive, erupted for the big play that meant a 2-0 conference mark.

Starting from their own 21, the Colts began their fateful series with two running plays that netted two yards. Apparently stopped again by the Cougar defense, the Colts were forced into a third-down, long-yardage situation. In the previous 35 minutes of play Camino had thrown just one unsuccessful pass. A pitchout went to halfback Joe Cortez, who spiraled an option throw to Ken Acosta 45 yards downfield and the catalyst had been applied.

The now momentarily disorganized Colts allowed quarterback Jim Stary to turn a broken play mixup into a seven yard gain on the next play and the Colts were in business on the Cougar 26. Five plays later, and now two minutes into the final period, halfback Dave Alvarez, all 122 pounds of him, scored on a quick trap up the middle, bouncing off two tackles near the stripe.

Only solid defensive play by Camino on the last two Cougar series prevented HMB from tying the score. The last drive nearly resulted in a touchdown as quarterback Frankie Reyes, hitting the quick pop pass with uncanny accuracy, guided the Cougars on a near-perfect drive with less than two minutes to play.

Reyes was three-for-four for 40 yards in that drive, and only an interception by defensive end Rudy Castellanos on the nine-yard line with 17 seconds remaining thwarted the Cougars.

So. S.F. 48, Serramonte 0

In one of those games that is played primarily because it says to in the schedule, South City toyed with the Regents in the bitter cold and wind of Daly City's hilltop campus.

Popping over 35 points in the first half and putting up a defense that not only didn't allow a point but didn't allow a first down until less than two min- their record to 5-0-0 with the utes remained, the Warriors ran one-sided victory.

The Warriors allowed just 18 yards rushing and 14 of these came against the bench-warmers on the last running play of the game. South City, meanwhile, tallied 270 yards as nine runners saw action. Fullback Hank Love was the leading ground-gainer with 71 yards on 13 carries.

The S.S.F. eleven had the ball for six series in the first half and five resulted in scores. Fullback Tom Crumpton broke the ice on the sixth play of the game by blasting over from the two. Quarterback Rhod Wallace ran in from the 20 before he passed to Love for the third TD from 43 yards out. It went on and on and on. . . .

Le Pacini

Death of 14-Year-Old Team

What can you say about a 14 year old team that died?

How about, actually, another second place finish is better than a kick in the kidneys.

But we are being flip, which is a natural defense for disappointment, but which is also better than a vehement, screaming tirade of a bad loser.

Which is why we chose to write about a fight referee in the middle of a pennant chase and playoffs; that and a deadline which makes everything we write seem late, which usually makes us look like a cheat (i.e., predictions usually appear after the event predicted is concluded even though the prediction was made before the event began — you understand that, don't you?) or foolish (i.e. one says things in the heat of battle which seem twice as serious in print especially when the event is long over, and which are almost always the wrong thing to say, anyway). Or you simply stick your foot in your mouth.

For instance, we had this big column prepared comparing the current pennant winning Giants with the 1962 pennant winner (Not much of a comparison, really. This year's Giants had a better team ERA — 3.32 to 3.80; but the '62 team won 103 games, fielded better and led the major leagues in hitting, homers and runs scored with 2.78, 204 and 878, respectively). Luckily, we decided to hold off and, as it turned out, that unfaithful but conservative move saved us the time and trouble of a wasted column and a considerable smatter of egg on our face.

Anyway, by opting to wait to cool off, we have achieved a totally unexpected effect. The Giants now look better to us than they did at any time during the season. Our reassessment of them makes us realize that Charley Fox and his boys performed a minor miracle by even reaching the playoffs.

Think about it. What did they really have that made them worthy of winning a pennant? Two super-star starting pitchers who didn't have super-star years. A great relief pitcher who was mediocre down the stretch. A catcher who couldn't catch (and who later couldn't hit). A first baseman who couldn't walk. An erratic second baseman. A rookie shortstop. No third baseman (except for a couple of months). A fine leftfielder who suddenly became accident-prone. An immortal center fielder who was immortal on the average of only about once a week. And then their most consistent player, certainly their most vaulable player, the right fielder, got hurt for the playoffs. And oh yes, their bench. Basically, it was a deposed shortstop who couldn't hit, a broken-shoulder third baseman who couldn't throw, and a collection of kids still searching for their potential.

ON THE OTHER HAND, we are optimistic about the future, primarily because none of the other teams are even potentially that much better than the Giants, but also because the Giants have a back-log of exciting young players and are perhaps only a move or two away from being a dominant force next year.

One thing the Giants need badly, until their young farm arms develop, is at least one more solid starting pitcher, probably a left-hander. Good starting pitchers of any arm are hard to come by, however, but so are good hitting catchers. And that is how the Giants could come up with that badly needed starter without dipping into their valuable youth pool. Even having a bad year, Dick Dietz whacked 19 homers and drove in 72 runs. There aren't many catchers around who can ever do that, and there are undoubtedly teams who would be willing to give up a starting pitcher to get that kind of power potential.

Of course, we wouldn't fly off the handle trading Dietz. We'd wait to see what develops in spring training.

If it appears that either Fran Healy or Russ Gibson, who are both superior receivers to Dietz, can hit a steady .250 (which Gibson did for the Red Sox in 1969), and if McCovey seems recovered from his impending surgery, and Kenny Henderson looks healthy, then we'd deal with Dietz, because the Giants could then afford to lose the power for the luxury of defense behind the plate for a change. And, of course, if Jimmy Ray Hart comes even part-way back and Dave Kingman isn't a flash-in-the-pan, that would be an extra cupcake in the lunch bucket. As it stands now, the only way Dietz can possibly be a plus to the Giants is to hit at least .300, collect 20-25 homers and drive in 100 runs. Anything less than that and he's a detriment.

We don't know what's going to happen at third base. Maybe Al Gallagher will learn to hit .300 all season, or maybe Hart will make that comeback. Or, perhaps, either Kingman or Henderson will make a successful switch. But we will make a prediction of what will happen at second base. We think that next year Chris Arnold will be the second baseman. Maybe not at first but we think that eventually he'll take over, as Fuentes took over from original starter Hal Lanier early in this past season.

Don't forget, Arnold had just come out of the service this past spring training, and at that was rated ahead of Speier early in the going.

He had a great year at Phoenix, showed moxie in the few games he was in with the Giants at the tag end of the season, and Fuentes, well, he just isn't the type of player who inspires confidence, even when he's going good. He's too erratic for a championship team and that's what the Giants can be.

As for the outfield, even with Mays fading away, and Kingman not proven, all it will take is one young player to suddenly catch on to playing in the majors (prime candidate, Bernie Williams), and the outer gardens, as the sportswriters say, will once again be solid. Even a relatively minor trade for a solid veteran with some left-handed power might do it.

RANDOM NOTES ON BASEBALL: Ironies on the Giants pitching staff were rampant this year. The most commonly publicized one was the fact that Juan Marichal had the identical won-loss record this year (18-11) that he had in the pennant winning 1962 (Although his ERA this time around was 2.94 as against '62's 3.35). What we heard nobody question was why the Giants can win only during the years when Marichal doesn't win 20? (That is, if you throw out '67 and '70, when he missed substantial portions of the season with injuries and illness.)

Another Marichal irony: virtually the only year he had a full spring training and didn't miss a turn in the starting rotation, was one ot the few years he couldn't win 20. Maybe he needs injuries, like Babe Ruth needed roaring hangovers, to realize his full potential.

And one more. During one of the few years the Giants were generous in supplying Gaylord Perry with runs (especially earlier in the season), he couldn't hold early leads.

If you want a Baltimore pitching irony, try this one: if Dave McNally hadn't been out 38 days, which meant probably 9 or 10 starts (and probably a minimum of 25 instead of 21 wins—which was still good enough to lead the Oriole staff), then the Orioles might not have had their coveted four 20 game winners, because the other starters might have had a few less chances, spread among them, to win their 20. Another oddity: big winner McNally wasn't even close to the other three in complete games. Another irony lurking?

The Orioles, incidentally, not only had as many 20 game winners as the entire National League, but had 40 percent of the American League's 20 win men —meaning almost 30 percent of all major league baseball's 20 game winners were on the same team.

You might know the usually published individual records of the big four (McNally, 21-5, 2.89; Palmer, 20-9, 2.68; Dobson, 20-8, 2.90; Cuellar, 20-9, 3.08), but for what it's worth following are the average hits, walks and strikeouts allowed per nine innings by the big four, statistics amazingly close yet in some cases surprisingly revealing about the relative effectiveness of the four:

	Hits	W	SO
Palmer	7.3	3.4	5.9
McNally	7.5	2.3	3.6
Dobson	7.9	2.0	6.0
Cuellar	7.7	2.4	3.8

It's easy to see that the least publicized of the quartet, Pat Dobson, had easily the best strikeout to walk ratio, a statistic on which many pitching experts dote. It is also interesting to note that, quite logically, the biggest winner (McNally) allowed the fewest base runners per game (9.8) while the man who is supposed to have the best stuff (Palmer) allowed the most (10.7).

SUDDEN THOUGHT: If teams get into financial trouble, why not increase their revenue by having advertisements on the players' uniforms like when we were kids and got local merchants to each sponsor a player on the sandlot team who would in turn wear his sponsor's name on his back.

Big Day Marred

then kicked his first of five perfect placements.

Mills stiffened up for a couple of exchanges, but couldn't really threaten against the big Falcon defensive line. Midway in the second quarter, after a short Viking punt, Crestmoor got another two-play touchdown. Jarvis hit Bob Scholl for 11 and Roller then rambled 32 yards to scoring country on what had started as a simple slant.

Roller did most of the work on the last Falcon score of the half, carrying on runs of seven and 41 yards to the Vike two; Ama took care of the rest. Roller racked up 112 yards in six carries in the first half and finished the day with 133 in nine tries. That was when he wasn't crunching people at linebacker.

The Falcons used up a goodly portion of the third quarter with a 12-play, 57-yard drive for the fourth score, and it became grimly apparent (if it wasn't before) that Mills was in serious trouble.

Still, Crestmoor wasn't satisfied, having been on the short end of numerous whompings in years gone by. The Falcons spent most of the fourth quarter trying to score, often via the pass, and succeeded once, on a 34-yard Jarvis to Scholl effort.

Jarvis was knocked out of the game late in the fourth quarter when he was driven out of bounds and knocked his head on a concrete curbing. He survived, but stayed out and watched the reserves come close to still another TD.

Jarvis finished the day with a yard rushing and 11 completions in 18 tries for all of Crestmoor's 190 air yards.

Ama, who proved as valuable a receiver as a runner, gained 44 yards in nine carries.

Oceana Runner Scores Upset

Oceana High School defeated both Jefferson and Half Moon Bay in a North Peninsula League triangular meet Thursday in Half Moon Bay.

Half Moon Bay now must wait until the league finals if it is to take the title from Oceana, with both teams considered equal threats for the championship.

Cap Nearly Wins

By STEVE JOHNSON

Capuchino? You mean the team that hadn't even won a game all year? Give Burlingame trouble? No way. Why it wouldn't even be a game.

That's the way a lot of people were thinking going into Friday's Mid-Peninsula League opener between the Mustangs and Panthers, including, apparently, most of the Burlingame team.

However, Capuchino was taking things a little more seriously, and the flat, lethargic host Panthers found out about that soon enough. And kept finding out the whole night.

Fortunately for Burlingame, the Panther defense decided that maybe Cap wasn't going to be that big picnic everybody expected, and accordingly shut off threat after threat to preserve Burlingame's 8-6 victory.

At first, it seemed routine for the Panthers. The first time they got their claws on the ball, it was six points just like that, with Clark Anderson scoring on a one yard dive, and connecting on a two-point conversion pass to Brett Johnson.

Simple. They could do it all night.

The 'Tangs decided to take out vengeance on various members of Burlingame's vaunted backfield. And did they ever. Nobody in a red uniform carrying a ball was allowed to go anywhere except into the waiting arms of a Cap defender, something which stunned the Panthers.

Burlingame never came close to scoring again, and even had trouble getting first downs. The Panthers could manage just two more the entire game after getting two on their initial drive.

But if you think Burlingame was having trouble moving the ball, consider Capuchino's plight. Five times in the second half, the Mustangs moved inside the Panther 30. They only cashed in once.

That score came when, with the Panthers punting from inside their 10, Howard Huff's kick hit the back of one of his own blockers, and Cap's little Dave Azzopardi fell on the ball at the Panther two. Dave Coduto ran it in on the next play, and even though the conversion failed, the 'Tangs only trailed by two.

Burlingame's offense decided to make it more interesting for their defense as they fumbled three times deep in their own territory. Cap wasn't about to be outdone, though. They gave it back twice the same way, even on the Burlingame one yard line on one occasion with 4:44 left in the game.

Cap got the ball back with a little more than a minute to play with Ken Swan taking a short punt and running it down to the Panther 19. The Mustangs drove all the way to the seven, where Swan attempted three straight passes, Friday. Burlingame just wouldn't crack. All three fell incomplete, the last one a desperation fourth down pass as the game ended.

Rams Triumph in Make-up Contest

By JERRY LITTRELL

In a game that may have many intangible effects upon the rest of the North Peninsula League football chase, the Westmoor Rams held off the pass-happy Jefferson Indians, 20-12, Monday in a make-up of an earlier postponed conference encounter.

Pete Matisi's Rams, sporting a 1-1 league mark and title aspirations, must now quickly make ready for undefeated South San Francisco High School this Friday evening. Minus the usual three days of preparation because of the weekend delay to let tempers cool over malicious mischief charges, the Rams' success will depend largely on how quickly they can recover from Monday's bruises. Jeff also must make a quick comeback to prepare for Half Moon Bay Friday afternoon.

Both Ram fullbacks may be sidelined, one for certain, as a broken ankle will keep season-long starter John Hart on the bench, while a recurrent back injury may force veteran Ken Green, who Monday scored a touchdown before retiring, again to the bench.

Balance was the big difference for the Rams. When starting quarterback Brad Kearns was playing he ran up 125 aerial yards with six completions in eight tries and two touchdowns. The Rams were also able to muster another 175 yards rushing. But for Jefferson it was a different story.

Chinto Fonseca, last year's All-NPL quarterback, had a brilliant afternoon with 15x30 and 257 yards with two touchdowns. Unfortunately, for Jefferson, the ground game could manage just a one-yard total and that, along with six costly fumbles, was the difference.

Westmoor went up early as Kearns hit split end Bob McLennan, the county's best receiver, on a 23-yard pass. Then Green took in a one-yard touchdown in the second quarter to make it 13-0. Fonseca got the Indians untracked just before half with an 11-yard pass to tight end Gary Lindsey.

McLennan, who has a variety of smooth moves after catching the ball, hauled in still another 26-yard td toss from Kearns to cap the Ram scoring for the game. Then came the wild finish.

Trailing 20-6 with just 30 seconds left, Fonseca found Greg King on a five-yard toss and Jefferson recovered the expected onside kickoff with 25 seconds remaining on the Westmoor 31.

Fonseca threw what appeared to be another touchdown pass but the officials ruled offensive pass interference. This pushed the ball back to the 46 and the drive and the game ended two incomplete passes later.

Jeff threw away many chances losing five of its six fumbles to the opportunistic Rams while Fonseca's receivers betrayed him on at least four occasions by dropping passes that hit either in the hands or on the chest. Both bad spots.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Le Bistro Rouge For Luncheon and Dinner

Something new has been added at the Le Bistro Rouge, a newcomer to Bright Lights' long list of praiseworthy restaurants. Demetri, the cordial host-owner of this Twenty-fifth Avenue restaurant featuring Continental cuisine announced that due to popular demand he is now serving luncheon as well as dinners. A menu of mid-day enticements is now being offered from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesdays through Fridays. A dinner entree that is creating much comment is Ducklin Flambe au Tripel Sec (served with fresh vegetables, rice or potatoes). As everyone knows, good cuisine demands time to prepare properly. So allow ample time for this epicurean delight. The duck is first prepared in the kitchen (pricking the skin while it bakes at just the right temperature so the natural juices baste it), then it's flambed by Demetri for the dramatic finishing touches at tableside. Dinner is served from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m. daily. Not open Mondays . . . The big Halloween Party to plan on attending is the Masquerade Party and Farewell on Halloween Eve, Saturday, October 30, at Stuart Anderson's Black Angus Steak House in San Mateo. Natale, who will be closing his engagement, will be the star of the occasion. Don a spooky costume, mask and make a reservation. It promises to be a gala evening, says Manager Dave Rollo.

RETURNS TO NOB HILL — Recording star Lou Rawls returns to the Venetian Room in the Fairmont Hotel Thursday, October 21, with his unique sound. Lou is recognized as one of the finest vocal artists in the country and is in constant demand by owners of the best supper clubs throughout the USA.

Enjoy Buttermilk Pancakes

The Villa Coffee House, just one of Villa Hotel's fine appointments, offers a tempting array of 'round-the-clock' menu items. You'll find a complete list of breakfast suggestions, from Villa Old Fashioned Buttermilk Pancakes to a gusty meal of Steak and Eggs. The Villa Lunch and Dinner Suggestions include such favorites as New York Steak, Spaghetti Italienne and Ham Steak Hawaiian. All are served with soup or tomato juice or mixed green salad, French fries, and hot rolls. If you're counting calories, the High Protein Special (freshly ground sirloin of beef, with pineapple and cottage cheese, and tomato slices, Rye Crisp) is a waist cincher. . . . Although the kitchen is scheduled to soon be enlarged and completely remodeled, The Showboat, a unique Burlingame restaurant, is open and doing business on a daily basis. The new owners have signed Joe Cannon, a well known singer and recording artist who comes to the Bay Area direct from Manhattan Beach, to a lengthy engagement . . . In order to keep his menu up to date with the best Italian food, prepared Tuscany-style, Oreste's restaurant owner, Joe Piccinini, makes frequent trips to Italy to acquire new recipes.

"Hello, Dolly" Finocchio's Hit

The new "Hello, Dolly" revue at Finocchio's is attracting tourists in big droves and causing plenty of comment. Members of the cast of the new stage sensation, "Company," starring Elaine Stritch, were guests at Finocchio's the other night. After the revue, they went backstage to congratulate the female impersonators on their performances . . . Nick's at Rockaway Beach is open daily for breakfast, lunch and dinner from 10 a.m., and offers facilities for private parties, banquets, wedding receptions and meetings. The menu is extensive, the prices most moderate. During dinner, enjoy an excellent vintage from Nick's selective wine list . . . A visit to the Shirt Tail in Palo Alto for dinner or late-evening cocktailing, will remind you of Capri or some other European spa. Singer Sergio Garzetti studied opera in Italy and learned French, Spanish, Yugoslavian and Hebrew songs in Europe. He's a romantic troubadour who plays guitar, piano, harmonica nightly except Sunday and Monday.

Vince's Chicken and Polenta

A Sunday Special at Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant receiving raves is Roast Chicken and Polenta. You can further fortify yourself with a luscious dessert, perhaps cheese cake (several flavors to choose from). The various fish are excellent however prepared — baked, poached, grilled, fried, broiled, or creamed. Pastas are numerous and portions are generous. This is a popular gathering place for busy working people, shoppers and party celebrations . . . Choice Cut Sirloin and Scampi, sauteed in wine and butter, is an often-ordered special served at Scotty Campbell's in Redwood City. This dish, served with baked or stuffed potato, crisp salad, coffee or tea, is a skillful blend of imagination and taste. Many of the best foreign vintages as well as bottlings from California's top vintners are stocked . . . Dapper Sid Yanoff, popular meat cutter at Lew Lehr's Steak House, in San Francisco's Marina District, is one of the best dressed men in San Francisco. Sid gets as many compliments on his wardrobe as he does on the extra-choice steaks he cuts to order for dinner patrons.

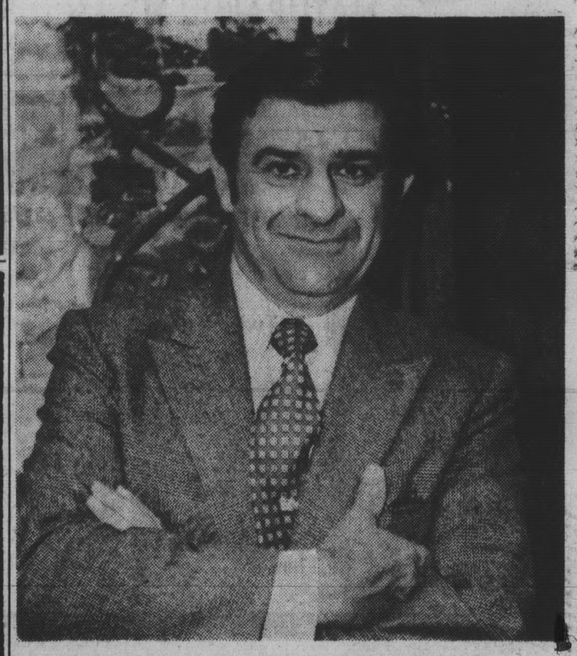
BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Try The Down Under Before You Step Out

If you're taking in the Curran or Geary theaters this weekend, a grand way to start off the afternoon or evening is by dining at The Down Under. Don Somerville, owner of this unusual San Francisco restaurant located on Taylor just steps away from the Geary Street Strip, is convinced that a juicy, well-turned steak is the live-it-up choice of countless numbers dining out. However, selections "From the Skillet" include fish dishes, chicken, veal and Down Under Specials for the preferences of others . . . Pete Esconvido, who is currently performing with Che'La in the Golden Rooster Lounge at Rodeway Inn, has performed with such musical greats as Cal Tjader, Walter Wanderly and Boss Schags. Pete, who sings and plays the conga, has worked a number of recording sessions as a studio musician. Entertainment nightly, Tuesdays through Saturdays, from 9 p.m. in the Golden Rooster Lounge . . . It would seem that the 49ers should be treated to another "Soul Food" feast at the Lord Fletcher Inn, Atherton. After their recent dinner here, which was prepared by waiter Woody Hutchinson, the squad flew south and "destroyed" New Orleans. Perhaps General Manager Andy Arditto and his crew should host the local pros prior to every game — it's a great send-off.

Sue Scott Tops At Russo's

Sue Scott, vocalist with Houck and Scott, currently showcased in the lounge of Russo's in San Bruno, has to be rated as one of the best gal singers to perform on the Peninsula nitery circuit. The group, which entertains Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, plays all original material . . . For a romantic evening of dining in an atmosphere of pure pleasure, set sail for The Moonraker, a sophisticated restaurant with a nautical accent located on the shoreline of Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. Nick Gust, "captain" of this prosperous dinner house, invites you to try his "Cocktails by the Sea," with a colorful rundown of drinks such as Singapore Sling; Zombi (he says beware of this one); Fog Cutter (this one at your own risk); A Moonraker (made from a secret recipe); and Navy Grog, a blend of exotic fruit juices and rum . . . In the mood for Mexican food? You'll discover the greatest this side of the border at the Papagayo Room, which is situated on the border of the Pacific Ocean at Rockaway Beach. While a guitar-strumming Mexican troubadour sings romantic songs, diners appease their palates with such spicy offerings as Tacos Dorados and Tostada de Chorizo. Clip the coupon appearing in the Papagayo Room advertisement and be the recipient of their "2 for the price of 1" offer.



DAPPER SAM MARCONI, owner of Maiden Lane's plush Iron Horse, invites you to make his popular San Francisco restaurant your first stop when taking in the entertainment of the Curran and Geary theaters, which are only three blocks away. Enjoy a superb dinner and the convenience of only one-time parking.

Monday - Wednesday For Prime Rib

Don't overlook this: Mondays and Wednesdays are "Prime Rib Nights" at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel. The full course dinner is the talk of San Mateo. It's a double-must, especially when you consider the soup-to-dessert meal is just $2.75 . . . Park Avenue Tours, with four Bay Area offices to serve you, has various types of excursions to Nevada guaranteed to save you money. Whether you're headed for Lake Tahoe or Reno, Park Avenue Tours has a package offering a generous amount of refunds, which can be applied towards food, beverages and fun the "Nevada Way." . . . Hie on over to Perry Smorgy in San Mateo tonight for their "All you can eat for $1.50" buffet. The help-yourself table will feature many hot dishes, including the popular Okie Fried Chicken; spaghetti; vegetables; potatoes; gravy; beans; jellos, puddings; salads galore and hot rolls: Children are only 10 cents per year nine and under. Remember, Monday night is Chinese night, and Tuesday features a Mexican fare. Going to Monterey or Santa Cruz this weekend? Then you're in luck, as you'll find a Perry's Smorgy to serve you there, too.

Tin Pan Alley Piano Action

Eddie Plutte, one of the best, keeps that pianobar at Bruno's in the Mission really hummin' over the weekends. Eddie dates back to the Gay 90's era with his fabulous memory of top hits that found their orgin in Tin Pan Alley. Customers rarely stump him when requesting numbers from the opera to a low-down arrangement of "St. Louis Blues." . . . Hard Tymes, a band well known to local niteries, has been signed for an indefinite run at The Putter, Burlingame Plaza. See and hear them perform Wednesdays through Sundays. You'll also find live music and dancing on Monday and Tuesday nights . . . Few bands currently appearing in Bay Area clubs can match the versatility of The Sound Barrier, a great group booked in Deejay's, Belmont. Music fans flock to this plush bistro to hear their musical variations every night of the week. Weekends here are wild, and the dance floor is always packed . . . Bob Tellez, general manager of Charley Brown's in Redwood City, is in the process of signing a new group to appear in the plush lounge Tuesday through Saturday nights. At the South San Francisco Holiday Inn (owned by Fred and Jerry Rapp), Food and Beverage Director Claude Schroeder provides excellent facilities for social, business and meeting occasions.

OPEN-DATED to PROTECT FRESHNESS

Open-Dating gives you an extra assurance of Freshness at Safeway!

Perishable foods (such as meat, eggs, dairy and bakery foods) sell so fast at Safeway they are on and off our shelves in a matter of hours. Still, we take no chances with freshness. Perishables which are manufactured or processed by Safeway, carry dates to guide our store people. Being positive that no package remains on the shelf after printed date, assures you that these Safeway foods will remain fresh and good for many more days with proper home refrigeration. Just another reason why we say "Discount With a Difference" at Safeway.

Airport Taxi Legislation Is Promised

By GEORGE GOLDING

New laws to control airport taxis were promised last Thursday by Assemblyman Leo Ryan, after a session with local politicians, cab drivers, and taxi company representatives.

Just what those new laws might be, will depend on what he hears from local people, he said. He will also be taking part in legislative hearings on airport taxi problems at San Francisco and Los Angeles International Airports.

Ryan asked that local people write him, outlining the problem, and suggesting remedies.

"Our problem," said Ryan, "is to find a way to allow people living on the Peninsula to have the same chance of getting a cab home from the airport, as those people who live in San Francisco."

He said a similar problem exists at Los Angeles, where cab drivers turn down short-haul fares, in preference to longer rides.

Airport assistant operations Chief Oreese Elmore pleaded with Ryan to create laws which would allow the airport to enforce its exclusive contract with Yellow Cab of San Francisco.

If that were done, he said, "you'd have no problem by tomorrow."

Pete Derenale, president of Chauffeur's Union Local 265 of San Francisco, said much the same thing.

Both pointed out that there are now no state laws which govern taxicabs, and said that numerous independent drivers take advantage of this hole in the lawbooks.

San Bruno Chamber of Commerce President Don Risso asked whether San Francisco Yellow could not establish a second "cab stand" for taxis to Peninsula points. He was told that this would work only so long as the independent drivers could be kept off the airport.

Nearly everyone admitted that drivers sometimes refuse short-hauls to Peninsula cities,

Harmony for Jefferson Board

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Harmony among trustees keynoted the Jefferson Elementary School District regular board meeting last week — the first since settlement of the teacher's strike.

Except for an opening statement by board chairman William Schumacher, again explaining the position of his board on the strike issue, no mention of the strike was made. Last week the strike of 227 service certificated Daly City teachers was nationwide news and news media from throughout the Bay Area covered every action of the board and its superintendent, Frank Greenwood.

Last night there was only two newsmen from local papers in evidence.

Schumacher said the city is still split on the matter and that the important duties of the community now will be to "achieve a full degree of harmony and cooperation to make our school program effective" once again.

He said the attempt of striking teachers to "coerce the board of trustees" into signing a contract that would usurp the boards decision making powers had failed. And he said there had been no reprisals on striking teachers nor will there be. "We have accepted them back in good faith hoping that the threats of intimidation which prevailed during the strike will be forgotten," Schumacher said.

It was the second mention of threats and intimidations concerning those teachers and substitutes who reported to classrooms during the strike in its many days. On Monday Greenwood covered much the same ground as Schumacher did last night, explaining how the substitutes were not substandard as alleged by strikers.

Schumacher mentioned the contract signed by teachers 13 months ago with the board of trustees of the J.E.S.D. At that time the Jefferson classroom teachers association struck the district for much the same reasons as they did this year.

That strike caught the district by surprise and the school board finally gave in and signed the contract demanded by teachers . . ." Schumacher said.

But the district attorney, the district's legal council, informed the trustees that this type of master contract for a fixed period of time plus several other provisions of the contract was illegal.

On October 1 presiding Superior Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn made court offered settlement. Under his plan the teachers agreed to return without the contract they struck for and the board of trustees agreed to take them back beginning on October 11.

"Now we are right back where we started," Schumacher said. "The board has accepted them back. No binding contract has been signed. We stand ready to resume negotiations and have so stated to the teachers' representatives. We await their reply as to time and place." According to Schumacher the important thing now is to achieve a full degree of harmony and cooperation to make the school programs effective. "Failure on the part of anyone to work for the benefit of the youngsters is doing a disservice to himself and the children," Schumacher said. Following Schumacher's opening remarks the board in an unanimous move adopted a statement proposed by an organization called the Daily City-Colma Property Owners co-chaired by Jack L. Jones and Harry R. Farber.

In part the statement said that the board would continue to represent the voters of the community and it would not in any way turn over control of the district to non-elected parties. "The board of trustees of the Jefferson School District will not negotiate such things as salary or fringe benefits with the teachers except under the provisions of the Winton Act and will unilaterally make decisions with regard to those in other educational matters.

"And the board will not enter into any binding fixed term bilateral contract that would prevent it from making changes necessary to the prudent operation of the school," the statement read.

Program on At Westside

Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the Westside Baptist Church, 390 Inverness Drive, Pacifica, the New Way Singers of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church of San Francisco, will present an evening of entertainment and challenge.

These are Chinese college-age youth who have formed a 33-voice musical group, and have recently returned from a tour of the southern states, where they presented the Gospel claims in music and personal testimonies. The public is urged to attend this special event.

"The Church — Her Order" is the sermon topic for the 10:55 a.m. worship hour message, Sunday. At this service, special music will be presented by Per Hillerstrom, vocal soloist.

During the worship service a children's church service is conducted for boys and girls, four through eight years of age, in the church social hall. Nursery care is provided for babies and toddlers at all of the Sunday services.

At 9:45 a.m. Sunday school at Westside Baptist Church is held. There are at present 15 classes, age-graded and Bible-centered that meet. In addition at this hour Pastor Donnelly is conducting a Pastors' Church Membership Class for youth and adults.

SOMEONE IS STUCK in the middle of that dispute between San Bruno Councilman George Corey and former Councilman Richard Griffith. Who it is we're not certain, but here's what's happening:

Griffith alleges he can name the next Bruno city manager and that the present interviews are nothing more than a fancy facade staged for the public by the current council, sans councilman Neil Christal. Griffith claims he can stuff the name in an envelope right now with the CM's name.

Corey says that an "untruth" (actually he used an eight letter word used to describe what is found at the Chicago stockyards) and challenged Griffith to put the money where his mouth is. With that Corey drummed up $100 as a wager.

Odds are seven-to-one if Griffith uses the unreliable "Ouija board system." On the other hand, if he REALLY knows . . . Meanwhile,

There is a guy in the middle (we hear) holding the stakes.

THE JEFF HIGH SCHOOL Board has okayed the Westmoor Pool plan submitted by architects Haines, Tatarian & Associates. This is a joint "adventure" between the JUHSD and Daly City. Some of the councilmen have asked about the overcosts of the pool since first estimates were bared several months ago. Could it be another C5A project? There are a lot of fancy explanations about how the pool plunge will not get any of the taxpayers wet. But folks let's face it, that money has got to come from somewhere and someone.

FLASH FLASH — This is a plug for the Mission Merchants Association. If you're interested read on. If not, stop here. President (make no mistake about that) Vince Merlo wants to make this perfectly clear — speaker for the upcoming October 28 meeting at the Serra Bowl, will be Supervisor (Mrs.) Jean Fassler.

WE'LL BE THERE to ask about our tax bill which we delightfully received Saturday. This gave the Little Wife and Yours Truly the entire weekend to cry. And, oh, how we cried. Actually we only sobbed for ourselves. But when we thought of all the people on fixed incomes — the seniors and the disabled — we downright bawled our eyeballs out. Everyone in government is going to "do something" about the inequities in the tax system for property owners — especially the fixed income property owners. Isn't it time these officials knocked off the mouthings and DID something about it? Let's stop using the problem as a political pawn.

The machinery of government is slow, we'll agree, but at the rate it's been moving to help those people it's absolutely ridiculous. Frankly, the property owners — rich, poor and otherwise — have great voting muscle. Isn't it time they used it?

The burden of financing everything from soup to nuts (and there seems to be a growing population of the latter in government) has been heaped for the most part on the already-stooped shoulders of one segment of the population.

Quite frankly, the cross is becoming a rather heavy burden to bear — for everyone and especially for the old.

COLMA POLICE CHIEF "Dini" Lagomarsino's body wasn't even in its grave in the city he protected for 15 long years when "acting police chief" Raymond Ottoboni Jr. ordered a new (gold, yet) police chief's badge from a Daly City firm.

For some reason, the store had to get tough with Colma to pay the bill for the two badges — one for the shirt and the other for the hat.

Finally the whole thing became public last week following a council meeting reported in The Post. The check went out to the firm shortly after. And while Colma still doesn't have a police chief, the 26-year-old Ottoboni is wearing the badges. Boggle the mind? You betcha!

TO ANSWER A QUERY from a Colma flower shop owner and several of her followers, this column has not turned its back on the appointment of Councilman Glen E. Duncan and the events surrounding it. The facts were reported in this newspaper and it is not without our purview to personally take it further. It would appear that that is the duty of others. Soooo?

COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT? Hello, hello? Yes, this is me again. I told you before about that dump behind the Cypress Hills Golf Course. No, sir, that's the Brisbane dump. that isn't being used any more. The one I'm referring to is on the slopes of San Bruno mountain on the WEST side of the mountain. That's right, sir, the WEST side. At any rate, there's an awful lot of stuff being dumped there and some of it smells rather . . . no, sir, I'm NOT accusing them of accepting the raw garbage at that dump you know nothing about. I simply said some of the stuff smells rather bad. And there was a fire there last week. Smokey. Pollutes the air, you know, and there's a law against that. You DIDN'T know there's an anti-pollution law for air? Well, we thought because you folks are concerned about our health . . . Hello, hello!

Hearing Relief for Young

By BOB HEMINGWAY

A new experimental program designed to assist hearing impaired youngsters in achieving normal intellectual, emotional and social development has been started recently by the special education division of the County Schools Department.

The program, carried out in cooperation with the State Department of Education, is designed for children between the ages of 18 months and 3 years.

Miss Patricia C. Hogan, coordinator for the program, explains that children who hear from birth begin to receive information immediately from their environment by way of their senses.

"A child with a hearing impairment misses most of this information," she states. "He needs assistance to compensate."

The coordinator notes that the specific ability to learn language reaches its peak at four years of age and declines thereafter.

"Thus a child born with a hearing impairment has a physical handicap which is one of the severest handicaps intellectually, emotionally and socially, known to man in an advanced technological society," Miss Hogan says.

It is the new program which is attempting to overcome these handicaps through personal contact with hearing-impaired youngsters in their own homes and environment.

There presently are only three children in the program — a Redwood City girl and boys in San Carlos and Daly City — but Miss Hogan expects that referrals by doctors will jump when the program becomes publicized.

Teaching the hearing-impaired youngsters is Mrs. Connie Yannacone, who visits her pupils several times a week. Working within the child's individual environment, Mrs. Yannacone attempts to encourage the child to associate meaning with sound.

For instance, the teacher will hold one of the youngster's toys and repeat the name of the toy until the child gets the idea and trys to repeat the word. It may not sound the same, but communication has been established.

As work progresses, the child is not only learning to use his vocal chords and to develop speech, but also to respond to the speech of others.

Mrs. Yannacone also gives instruction to the families, separately from the child, in techniques they can use to communicate with their youngster and encourage receptive and expressive language development.

After the age of 3, the hearing-impaired child can enter hearing assistance programs sponsored by the various public school systems. That program has been in existance since 1946, but has a minimum age limit of 3.

JAMES HALLEY

Post-Times Columnist

The 1972 Presidential campaign is underway. The competing forces are campaigning differently now than they will be next year, but what happens in the next few months will determine issues and condidacies and perhaps decide the race before it formally starts. A glance at what is going on seems worthwhile.

The President has seized the initiative on both foreign and domestic issues. Winding down the war, visits to China and Russia, and the rearranging of international purchasing power have enabled him to dominate the center of the international stage. Beginning early this year he has made sweeping proposals concerning most features of the domestic front, and with Phase 1 and Phase II he has captured leadership on economic issues.

The logical political extension of this governmental action would be for Mr. Nixon to campaign as "President of all the people." Such a plan would make obsolete earlier thrusts such as the southern strategy, hard-hattism and petulant attacks on "radical-liberals." The emphasis would be affirmative — to get voters to support the President because of his accomplishments.

President Nixon's forces tried negativism in 1970 and it failed to deliver. Should his political leadership return to former habits it would lose the substantial advantages to be found in the selling of the positive features of this innovative man.

An affirmative campaign is probable for another reason. It best meets the challenge of bloc voting.

The basic building blocs of national politics are many. Included are labor, farmers, each of the minorities, the young, the new left, the big city machines, the Southern Democratic establishment and the hard right. Considering these groups, one readily sees that few are available to Republican candidates. If one admits a serious Wallace challenge, not even the hard right is safely Republican.

The leadership of most potential blocs is more susceptible to wooing by Democrats. The bloc, in other words, will likely go against Richard Nixon if it votes as a bloc. His campaign, therefore, must reach into the home and mind of each individual member of each bloc and hope to thus win enough votes to avoid being deluged by organized voting patterns.

Considering that about one quarter of the voting public views itself as Republican, blocsmanship becomes all more important. A Republican condidate must get large numbers of Democratic and Independent votes, and most of these same voters have at least tenuous ties to bloc leadership. This fact also means that the President will probably run a strong independent campaign that will not be visibly dominated by GOP machinery.

The Democratic problem is different. As the larger (but not majority) party its candidates can more easily identify with their partisan base. Democratic candidates, furthermore, can look to blocs as opportunities, not dangers If, for example, labor is going to vote as a unit for any candidate, it will be for the Democratic nominee.

But the dangers from the Democratic point of view are also substantial. The Democratic nominee who fails to attract most of the blocs will lose. Holding them together will be no easy trick as actions and positions that appeal to one such component will, of necessity repel others.

The ultimate test of bloc creation will occur at the Democratic convention next year. Then competing forces will openly battle over the platform, delegation seating and nominations.

But many important moves in the bloc game will take place in coming months.

The big and visible changes will be apparent. Thus Presidential successes, third or fourth party spin offs, and group disenchantment (e.g. youth) will be easily recognized.

But every bit as important will be those subtle changes the American political psyche that are constantly taking place. The individual voter, as always subject to many conflicting pressures and forces will have to resolve for himself the final choice.

THE MARQUEE

"Style requires enormous energy to achieve," former Stanford University instructor Michel Langinieux noted in announcing the opening of "The School," this week at 1870 Sacramento Street, San Francisco.

That's why he hopes actors and singers who are willing to work hard, and give everything to their art will enroll in classes for the express purpose of ultimately forming a production company.

"Life is so much more exciting when you discover treasures in yourself that only dedication to perfecting your art can uncover. You need a catalyst to learn style and I'm that. I've been called a perfectionist, a tyrant even, and I am demanding, but I have respect for an audience and feel with well trained performers and a six-week rehearsal period, we can do something with meaning."

The energetic young Frenchman made a strong impression on Bay Area audiences with only two productions: "Orpheus In The Underworld" which he directed for Stanford's Opera Theater in February of this year, utilizing 100 people in dance, acting, singing and mime, and Moliere's "Learned Ladies" at the Palace of the Legion of Honor. He is currently teaching movement at Mills College, Oakland.

Co-founder of The School is internationally acclaimed mezzo-soprano Margery Tede. During the first 10-week course she will teach basic vocal technique which include a study of operatic and concert literature on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

Instructors also include Howard Malpas, a graduate of the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art and Music, London; David Byron Sackeroff, a graduate of Ohio and Brandeis Universities and Joan Benson, internationally known clavichordist.

"The idea of my classes in body movement, acting for actors and singers and advanced acting in the French Classical Style is to achieve not only precision but a certain magnetism. You can play a tramp but with style. It involves getting from the person the best he can do and reaching that spark that is unusual."

"I have new ideas about "Orpheus." The production shocked the Stanford administration because 28 students appeared in the underworld scene nude. I advertised in the Stanford Daily and they came to tryouts. Most of the faculty admitted they couldn't tell the boys from the girls onstage because it was so artistically lit but I was only allowed four performances. They were all sold out," he smiled mischieviously.

"This time I'll produce it in a large San Francisco theater with my students from The School. We don't wish to compete with other schools, only provide another outlet for performing, an exciting, living production that is not controlled by academic policies."

His idea is to find a rock group who can play classical music and transpose the Offenbach music to a rock score. Other productions he has in mind to do are Berlioz' "Beatrice and Benedict," Marivaux's 18th century comedy, "The Game of Love and Chance," and scenes from French classic plays and one cat operas for small invitational audiences.

Plans are to lease the vacated Bourne Mansion, 2550 Webster Street, and turn it into a cultural center with studios and the second floor ballroom an ideal setting for chamber music performances. Artists and painters could display their works on the massive walls and hallways.

An Author's Imagination

By SAMUEL C. CHANDLER

Thank goodness the novel "V.P." came from the imagination of author George Merlis and not from current events.

Here is a story of a Vice President of the United States who challenges the President for their party's nomination.

He is clever, this Vice President, saying the things that appeal to the so called "Great Majority," but in reality he represents "far-right" groups which endorse such schemes as establishment of concentration camps for extremists.

To strike back at him, the Vice President's opponents bring about the arrest of his son for indecent exposure. Then his mistress tells all in a magazine article.

By convention the campaign dirt has erupted into riots, deaths, racial disorders and general chaos making it necessary for the party's nominee to be named by cynical men in smoke filled rooms and promise-filled meetings.

"V.P." REPRESENTS a deep concern among some authors over what they see as a lack of ethical principles in American life. Because of their concern they say in fiction what Leon E. Panelta and Peter Gall wrote in a recent book, ". . . everything seems short range," and that "the facile rejection of moral authority or governmental principle in favor of pragmatic needs of the moment has frightening implications for all areas of American life."

Another novel voicing this concern is Mark Mirsky's Proceedings of the Rabble. Here an author uses fiction to make a jab at the forces alive in this country that may some day lead to a fascist dictatorship. The object of his spleen is a political Nazi-type group that he calls the Continentals.

Its ruler is a cynical degenerate who plays upon the minds of the people he contacts with a seemingly inexhaustible barrage of metaphors and imagery of filth and decay.

In depicting this disgusting part of the life of some Americans, Mr. Mirsky includes the beastility and brutality in such a manner the novel is nearly unreadable. Only the hope that America can frustrate the sickness the gang represents makes the reader continue to the end.

Obviously this is a book only for those with strong stomachs; yet it poses the question: do forces exist in the United States that could bring the degeneracy of a Hitler-like rule.

It Couldn't Happen Here?

Most people are much more willing to talk about an environmental clean-up than to really do something about it. This seems to have been more than amply illustrated by the total fiasco of the one-day anti-smog campaign conducted in Los Angeles.

Talked into the idea that a lot of loud talk, newspaper, radio and television publicity, and the co-operation of public and private enterprise officials might bring about a "one day miracle" in reducing the smog from automobile exhaust emissions, the Angelenos launched a massive effort. The thought behind it was "if we can do it for one day, it can be done every day."

The public officials were willing to try it. More than a hundred companies organized computerized car-sharing pools. The bus services agreed to put on extra buses for the day. Two organizations, "Operation Oxygen" and "Stamp Out Smog," promoted the effort enthusiastically for a whole week and secured almost unlimited publicity from newspapers, radio and television. It became a topic of conversation at dinner tables, churches and even bars.

The idea was simple enough. On the announced day everyone who could possibly do so was to share rides, walk, take a bus or otherwise refrain from using his personal auto for one whole day.

Sad to relate, on the appointed day the response was so small as to be termed nil. "The whole thing met with resounding apathy," observed a California highway patrolman. Only five riders showed up for the special buses. Street and freeway traffic was as heavy, and as immobile, as usual.

The pall of smog over the city of Angels remained as thick, and as acrid, as ever.

We like to think we are different in Northern California. Would any of our avid environmentalists like to risk trying the same idea here?

THE AKRON, one of California's leading department stores and decorating houses, will celebrate the opening of its 21st store, The Akron Colma-Daly City, November 3, at 10 a.m. The store is located in the Serra Shopping Center (across Interstate 280 from the Serramonte Regional Shopping Center). Of contemporary architectural design, the 23,000 square foot, single-story structure will be overflowing with decorator items from all corners of the world, fine furniture, up-to-the-minute fashions for men and women, gourmet wines and foods, a complete housewares department, an auto supply section, garden and patio accessories, art supplies, bedding and linens and gift items.

Chief's Badge For Acting Colma Chief

Colma policeman Raymond Ottoboni Jr. wore his gold plated police chief's badge for the first time Thursday.

Although Ottoboni, whose father is the city's mayor, is still Colma's "acting police chief," the council Wednesday indicated he may wear the chief's emblem.

Ottoboni, 30, was appointed to Colma's two man police department to assist Chief "Dini" Lagomarsino less than two years ago.

Lagomarsino died of cancer on May 12, of this year.

The next day, without formal approval of the city council according to official minutes, officer Ottoboni ordered two chief's badges from Irvine & Jachens, Inc. of Daly City

Cost of the badges was $81.38.

For reasons unknown the city pigeonholed payment of invoice No. 4657 from the firm for five months after badges No. 498 and No. 153 had been delivered on June 2, 1971.

On a motion made Wednesday by councilman Glenn Duncan, warrants, including payment for the badges, were approved by the council.

Approval for purchase of the chief's badges are not reflected in any official council minutes.

The reason for approving payment of the badges and allowance for Ottoboni to wear them, but refusal to formally appoint him police chief, has some residents baffled.

Mrs. Marion Daneluz, owner of a Colma flower shop, said she asked why the council did not appoint young Ottoboni chief, but received no positive answer from any of the council members.

BETTER BUSINESS

By LORENE BEASLEY
Better Business Bureau

Many people who purchase lots for camping or for a second home do not realize the problems that can confront the land buyer. High pressure tactics are a sure indication that a deeper investigation of a land promotion before buying might prove worthwhile.

Any parcel of land is a sizeable investment even though the easy payment plan may sound painless — $200 down and $15 per month thereafter. Exorbitant prices are often asked for lots in recreation subdivisions. If your investment is sizeable it is wise to seek legal advice. Or, consult friends of associates who are familiar with land and real estate transactions.

Don't take for granted that the old adage "you can't lose investing in land" is always true. Consider carefully how much use you will get out of the land while waiting for it to increase in value. A vacation lot can be an excellent investment but it may take years before it appreciates enough in value to surpass the originally inflated price. There are taxes to be paid and finance charges add up over the years.

Never sign a contract the first time you visit the property and listen to the salesman's presentation. Salesmen of lawbreaking land promoters and subdividers are well-trained and there is much pressure put on the prospective buyer to get away from the "city tensions".

The California State Department of Real Estate has issued nineteen "desist and refrain orders" at 19 subdivisions, mostly in rural areas, since the first of the year. Another 22 were sent to subdividers of out-of-state lots offered for sale in California. The traditional weapon "desist and refrain" can not be used with such force on a firm or individual outside the control of the state agency.

Do not waive or cancel the 48-hour cooling off period provided by law for your protection. Read all contracts carefully. Ask for copies of the "property Report.' Ask to take them home with you to read more carefully before you do any signing.

If this is not agreeable with the salesmen, remember there will be other "perfect lots" in other developments. Do not assume because the developmennt is registered with the Department of Housing and Urban development (H.U.D.) that the Government has inspected, investigated or is in any way endorsing the property.

Do not take for granted anything you are told unless it is written into the sales agreement. It is the written words in a contract that are important.

Peninsula High Sets Dinner

The families and friends of the students of Peninsula High School in San Bruno are invited to a "Back-to-School" spaghetti dinner at 6:30 p.m., Wednesday. Peninsula is the continuation school of the San Mateo Union High School District.

Dinner will be served in the individual "community rap" (home rooms). It will be followed by discussions of the "trimester" scheduling system new to Peninsula this year; the planning and selection of a new campus (Peninsula's lease at the U.S. Naval Facility in San Bruno expires February 1); the school's outdoor education program; and the recent commitment to the new "Goals and Skills" program.

After the discussions in the classrooms, the parents and guests can visit the rest of the school. Musical entertainment will be provided by a group of Peninsula students.

("Goals and Skills" classes meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays. In "Goals and Skills," the student works on those basic skills in which he is weakest, such as math, reading, or spelling, in order to bring his proficiency to the appropriate level for his age and grade.)

POLICE AWARD — Daly City Councilman Anthony (Tony) Giamonna (right) presents plaque to Police Captain John Walsh for exceptional record in traffic safety. Daly City was one of 29 cities in its category without pedestrian traffic fatality in 1970. The award is presented annually by the Automobile Association of America (AAA).

DC Beautification, Safety Program Enters 2nd Phase

The second phase of the beautification and safety program along Hickey Boulevard in the Serramonte section of Daly City has been completed, City Engineer David K. Macabee announced today.

With completion of the project, a green belt of living plant material, selected by city Park Superintendant August J. Conci, has been built which will offer both beauty and safety to motorists and residents.

Cost of the project was not drawn from the city general fund, it was revealed.

Negotiations between the Serramonte subdivider and City Council resulted in the subdivider paying for construction of the safety islands.

The $73,000 cost of the green belt was paid for out of gas tax funds provided by the State.

Macabee also coordinated the project with Fred DeJarlais and Leary Wong of the city's Engineering Division.

The design emphasizes the Japanese concept, whereby river rock and sand is combined with plants to give the impression of islands and water.

Conci said plants were chosen for their appearance, resistance to wind, fog and drought, plus ability to withstand disease.

Plants include rapholipsis indica, hebe eleptoca, Algerian ivy, carpotis eludes, myporum lateum and pittisporum crassifolum, Conci said.

Cable TV Hearing Set

A public hearing on cable television will be held by the Millbrae City Council tonight.

More than a year has been spent trying to bring better television service to local homes by persuading a cable television firm to come into the community.

What has caused the demand for a hearing, is that plans for a cable-television antenna system have created some public opposition.

Neighbors have opposed plans for a "high rise" tower on a city water tank site, have objected to proposals to erect such a tower on downtown buildings, and are now complaining about a suggested low-rise signal gathering antenna on the hilltop water tank property.

New Pacifica Stop Signs Voted

Residents of Chestnut Avenue were granted their request for a stop sign on Jenevein but a request for a stop sign at Glen and Santa Lucia in Parkview Terrace was rejected, at last week's meeting of the Traffic Safety Council.

James Studdard, 551 Chestnut, Malcolm Parks, 324 Poplar and Vern Wynn, 534 Chestnut, argued that the intersection is a blind one, and that drivers coming uphill fail to see cars coming out of Chestnut.

Henry Hain reported on the radar study made at Glen and Santa Lucia, and his fellow committee members then voted down the stop sign request.

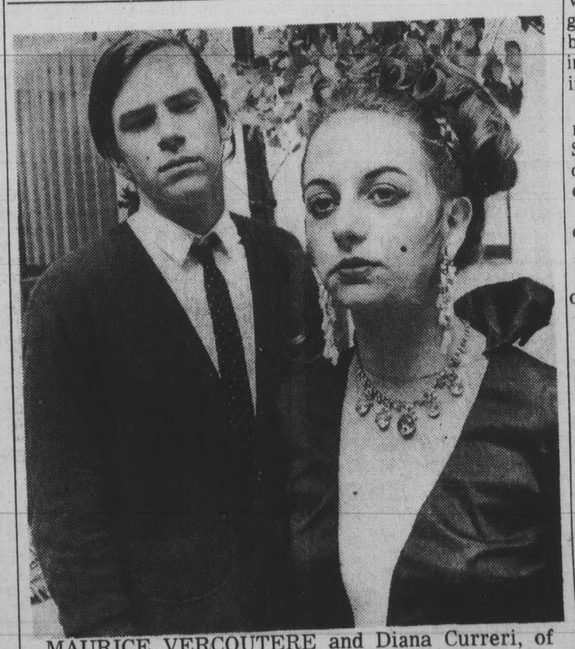
The committee took a series of steps which it hoped would iron out the dispute between the El Camino Theater and owners of nearby bars and restaurants.

Fred Diaz, owner of Walter's Cocktail Lounge, complained that the theater rented out its parking lots to Tanforan Dodge, and that as a result, theater patrons have been parking on the city parking lot behind him, thus denying his customers any parking.

The committee voted to see pamphlets be printed and distributed showing parking areas next to the 400 block of San Mateo Avenue, that the city attorney look into the legality of the theater leasing its parking lots for storage, and that stops be taken to change the lot into public parking for theater patrons.

Discussion of parking problems at Hawthorne and Jenevein Avenues was deferred for further discussion with the Church of the Nazarene.

Hein gave a report on meetings held with adjacent cities and interested persons on bicycle routes in San Bruno. The committee approved the proposed bike routes, and recommended them to the city council.



MAURICE VERCOUTERE and Diana Curreri, of Daly City, appear in the leading roles of Anton Schill and Madame Claire Zachanassian, in the Skyline College production of Durrenmatt's chiller, the Visit. The Visit will be presented in the Skyline Studio Theatre October 22, 23, 29 and 30, starting at 8 p.m.

Shot Fatal To Bruno[illegible]

A 33-year-old San Bruno unemployed photographer apparently took his own life Wednesday morning by shooting himself in the head with a .22-caliber rifle, police said.

Paul Bekesy, of 257 Huntington Avenue, was found lying on the front room floor by officer Ron Deghi, who had accompanied Bekesy's wife Irene to the [illegible]

Police said Mrs. Bekesy came to the police station at about 10 a.m. [illegible] that she had been attempting to call home since she left for work at 8 a.m. and could not get an answer.

She told police she was concerned because her husband had been despondent and she knew he had a gun. She asked the police to accompany her home. There were no notes, police said.
